Around And About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

Vic Soper was the recipient of fervid congratulations for the program he presented to the Breakfast club last Thursday morning. When the program was concluded all the members surrounded Vic to shower him with praise for the fine entertainment. In order to get the full force and effect of this congratulatory shower, you should know that Vic's performers failed to arrive.

Hunter Leach presents a rabbit's foot. It is supposed to be an emblem of good luck. Maybe he is, but the last one I carried brought a frost, and so far this year no rain. Maybe this foot is from a different kind of a rabbit. I'll host the hoof for a few weeks and if there isn't a change for the better, Hunter will get his gift back.

The frost is on the pumpkin and the foddler's in the shock, but I do not know where the turkey is. One is expected to appear at my house next Thursday and if I am disappointed I will not be the only one.

Devoted friend tells me that I am a living example that the good die young.

The town of Marshall, Ill., pays for porch illumination. It is good burglar insurance. Thieves do not like the light. The cost, if borne by the individual, would be of little consequence. And Marshall, with a light on every porch, results in an attractively illuminated city. I've known of a householder who raised the chickens if some member of the family left the porch light on, when the "boss" would come inside and turn on a half dozen lights he didn't need. About the only time I see porch lights on is Halloween night. And it's sometimes more than an ounce of preventative.

Physical handicaps are often overcome. Too many times they bring defeat. As long as we always have the fighting spirit the world hopes of gaining a victory. You probably know within your own circle cases where hope had fled. And of other cases where a determined soul conquered a physical handicap, established a place for himself and made the world happier. But the personal element involved I could cite you a case. Suffice it is if you have suffered an affliction that you do not give up.

Apologies to two feds. Missed 'em in passing. Heard from it later on.

Oh yes, we still have 'em. The specie isn't extinct. Those automobile drivers who emerge from alleys without sounding the horn. It's a nervous shock for the pedestrian, without a semblance of impenetrability on the part of the autoist.

And if you think the weather isn't important, you haven't had anything yet. If I could send the weather conversations I would have some spare time to devote to the few friends or other matters of equal importance. And, after all, weather is just one of those things we can talk about and do nothing to change it. However, as a conversational subject ever since the elements were flung into the celestial orbs.

And then the contract bridge player came in to tell me about overbidding a hand on the advice of an expert, and losing two tricks.

About those unemployment report cards. Have an inquiry from a fellow who thinks he is doing two men's work, and wants to know if that absorbs one fellow who hasn't any job. My guess would be that it did not, unless he splits the salary.

Senate May Probe Rumor Of Anti-Fascist Move

BULLITT SAID SENT TO WARN POLAND

Action Against Italo-German-Jap Pact

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) and Senator Lewis (D., Ill.) joined today in asking an investigation of a report that William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France, had been sent to Poland to "warn" that country against participating in the Italo-German-Japanese anti-communist pact.

Vandenberg interrupted the lynchpin filibuster on the senate floor to read a newspaper dispatch from Paris which said Bullitt had gone to Poland for that purpose.

The account said Bullitt was understood to be "acting under instructions from President Roosevelt."

Senator Lewis asserted that an effort should be made at once to "ascertain the facts" from the state department and the President.

"It is inconceivable," Lewis commented, "that the ambassador to France would have blundered into such action."

Vandenberg said it was "precisely" his view that the state department should be asked to explain.

"After reports indicating our roving ambassador has been engaged in divers and sundry mysterious conferences with representatives of foreign governments, followed by this amazing dispatch, it would appear that here is a thing we ought to look into and find out what the facts are," Vandenberg declared.

Inquiries at the state department brought the explanation Bullitt's visit to Poland was a personal affair entirely.

The department characterized as "baseless" reports that Bullitt had gone to Warsaw on an official mission.

It was stated officially the envoy now is on a brief leave from his Paris post.

While at Warsaw, it was said, Bullitt is to be the guest of his close friend and fellow Philadelphian, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., the American ambassador to Poland.

Pontiac Squatters Reject Peace Plea

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—The Pontiac local of the United Automobile Workers of America thundered its rejection of a plea from the international union to abandon a sit-down strike in the plant of the Fisher body corporation here early today.

In a tumultuous meeting which began last night and continued nearly six hours, the auto workers voted by acclamation to proceed with the strike after Fred Pieper, a member of the International executive board, urged them to return to work.

J. V. Mitchell, president of the local, joined with Pieper in asking the men to discontinue the strike, which began Wednesday night and left 14,721 General Motors corporation employees idle.

12,000 Goodyear Workers Idle

AKRON, Ohio. (AP)—Twelve thousand Goodyear Tire & Rubber company employees were idle today, the result of a sit-down precipitated by a scheduled lay-off of 1600 workers.

Operations were suspended in the three plants of the largest Akron "big three" rubber companies.

Smith, Meet Fred Famous Family In Reunion

One of the world's exclusive organizations extended the hand of fellowship today to five residents of Orange county.

In a communication addressed generally to Fred Smith and Fred Smith, Seal Beach, and to Fred Smith, Seal Beach, and to Fred Smith, Seal Beach, the Benevolent and Protective and Completely Universal Order of Fred Smiths of America announced that their membership lists now were open for the ensuing year.

President Fred Smith said this year's first annual banquet of the order in New York, so successfully held last year, would have another one in Seal Beach.

As in last year's banquet, the invitation list will be limited to Fred Smiths, Mrs. Fred Smiths, prospective Mrs. Fred Smiths, and, under certain conditions, ex-Fred Smiths.

Special dispensation will be granted Smith Fredericks, who will be permitted to enter the banquet hall backwards and eat off their laps.

More than 3000 invitations will be mailed, presumably among them invitations to Orange county's five Fred Smiths. They are: City Judge Fred J. Smith, Seal Beach; Mechanic Fred E. Smith, Santa Ana; Salesman Fred L. Smith, Seal Beach; Printer Fred M. Smith, Santa Ana, and Dental Technician Fred S. Smith, Santa Ana.

ORDER KISS DEATH TRIAL

GLENDALE. (AP)—"Chin up," Paul A. Wright, 38, airport president, was preparing an unwritten law defense today for his trial on a double murder charge in the slaying of his wife and best friend.

"I'm keeping my chin up," he said. "I've got to beat this case for the sake of my little girl, Helen." She is 3 years old.

Wright withheld his "full story" at his preliminary hearing yesterday when an 80-year-old police judge, Frank Lowe, bound him over and set his arraignment for Dec. 6. But part of his statement to police that he caught his wife, Evelyn, 28, "cheating" in the arms of John Kimmel, was read into the court record.

TELLS OF KISSES

"It was so perfectly astounding," the police statement quoted him, "they looked up, smiled or laughed and kissed each other again, then things went perfectly white hot. I didn't think. All I

NEW ALASKA STAMPS HERE

Twenty thousand Alaskan commemorative stamps, which collectors have been anxiously awaiting for a week, arrived at the post office this morning and will be placed immediately on sale, according to Postmaster Frank Harwood.

Purple in color and of the three-cent denomination, a snow-capped view of Mt. McKinley is in the background of the picture on the stamp, while in the foreground are depicted views symbolizing present day developments in the Alaskan territory. There are 50 stamps to each sheet.

Two other special issues are to be placed on sale within the next month. One of these will be the Puerto Rico commemorative issue which should be at the local office on Nov. 25, and the other being the Virgin Islands commemorative stamp which will go on sale Dec. 16.

Boy, 6, Burns; Mother Rescued

LONG BEACH. (AP)—A neighbor from Mrs. Mae Le Rosignol from her burning home early today but flames forced him to retreat before he could find her 6-year-old son, George.

Firemen located the boy's charred body at the foot of his bed after the blaze, caused by an overheated stove, was extinguished.

"I heard him whimpering in there, but I couldn't get to him," said R. T. Wheelless who removed Mrs. Le Rosignol to safety when she fainted on the porch. She is a widow.

CHINESE LINE CRUMBLES

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Japanese troops today cracked the southern pivot of the Chinese "Hindenburg" line defending Nanking and struck shattering blows along its central and northern fronts.

Fighting through the mud and rain, the Japanese drove last Chinese defenders from Kashing and occupied that vital southern link in the "Hindenburg" chain. Central Japanese columns approached to within three miles of Soochow, the line's keystone, and northern detachments threatened to make untenable Chinese positions at Changshu.

PREPARE DEFENSE

About 125 miles northwest of the line, 12 Chinese divisions under the veteran, General Tang Sheng-chi, entrenched themselves in strong defense positions just outside Nanking. The Nanking official spokesman declared they were prepared to defend the city "to the last."

Inside Nanking's walls, two divisions of Szechwan province troops rushed to the capital from the interior after Shanghai fell into Japanese hands Nov. 9, prepared defense posts to be used in case the city eventually is encircled and besieged.

United States and other foreign embassies completed "stickie" orders to evacuate Nanking and follow the Chinese foreign office to Hankow as soon as Chinese officially announced the shift.

JOHNSON TO LEAVE

Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson was understood to be ready to go to Hankow on an American gunboat. He would be accompanied by Willis R. Peck, counselor of the embassy, and Clayton W. Aldridge, second secretary. J. Hall Paxton and George Atcheson, jr., second secretaries, were expected to remain in Nanking.

Dispatches from Tsingtao, seaport of the North China province of Shantung, said the Chinese fifty-first army was hurrying westward to reinforce Chinese lines south of the yellow river.

Congress Talks, FDR Aches

"Grapefruit Jaw" Takes Stage as New Deal Ailment

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt's jaw, one of his ailments said today, "sticks out like a grapefruit" from the tooth infection that has kept him confined four days.

The chief executive remained upstairs in the residential part of the White House again today, but read his mail and arranged an appointment with Postmaster General Farley.

Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, said it would take two or three days to clear up the abscess.

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Congressional committees feared completion of farm control bills today while senators and representatives devoted another day to talk.

Chairman Smith (D., S. C.) announced his senate committee would vote tomorrow on an "ever-normal granary" bill. The house committee, taking up individual items, voted marketing quotas for corn and voted down processing taxes on both corn and wheat.

Senator Connally (D., Tex.) continued a filibuster by southerners against the anti-lynching bill.

The house, starting another day of varied debate, was prevented from considering a resolution to declare a state of war exists between Japan and China. There is

Saints-Fullerton Game For Next Year Off

Student body dissension threatened today to wreck athletic relationships between both high school and junior colleges of Santa Ana and Fullerton.

MAY DRIVE SHIP WITH MERCURY

NEW YORK. (AP)—An invention to use mercury power—the energy of hot molecules—to drive steamships and reduce the cost of shipping was announced today to the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

The architects were informed that the Normandie, transatlantic record holder, can substitute mercury for steam and cut her annual fuel bill $400,000, with no speed loss.

The proposal for this new type of sea power was made by William L. R. Emmet, Schenectady, N. Y., engineer who started use of mercury power eight years ago. Five American plants are using it but mercury never has been feasible at sea.

An improvement in boilers, Emmet said, recently made at the Pittsburgh, Mass., General Electric mercury power plant, makes it possible to extend the new hot molecule principle, and in many cases mercury can be installed on existing steamships.

Beer Burglary Charged by Police

Assertedly caught "red-handed" while carrying two cases of beer from Sully's cafe, 135 West Center street, Anaheim, Wednesday night, two Anaheim men were booked in Orange county jail on burglary charges yesterday.

Robert Ruiz, 46, and Andy Rios, 37, were charged with cutting a screen and breaking a window in order to gain entrance to the cafe. Anaheim police assertedly interrupted them while they were still in the building.

Farmers Will Boycott Unions

MODESTO. (AP)—"Defensive" boycotts by farmers against cities where labor disputes have resulted in labor unions boycotting farm produce were approved by delegates to the California Farm Bureau federation convention.

R. W. Blackburn of Riverside county was re-elected president for a two-year term. Sacramento was chosen for the 1938 convention. Approximately 2000 members attended the four-day convention.

Garner Gapes, Growls at Wife's Modern Hat

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Men who do not like their wives' hats gained a convert today in Vice President Garner.

He took one look at the fashionable high crown of Mrs. Garner's new hat and announced: "It makes you look like a flapper."

Mrs. Garner disagreed. The fact that the brim turns down all around, she told him, "really makes me look like an old lady."

They left the matter there—at least temporarily.

Title - Bound Dons Have 3 Mascots

Mascots come in threes on the Santa Ana Junior college campus this year, as Bill Cook's Dons ramble on toward their second straight Southern California football championship. Left to right, they are Mascot Danny Frias, 20-year-old midweight; "Mike," 9-month-old bulldog rooster; and young Bill Smiley, 7-year-old nephew of Mac Beall, Don halfback.

By ED VELARDE

Football teams generally have one mascot. But Santa Ana's championship Dons are different—they have THREE!

The three are familiar figures at all jaysee games. They are "Mike," 4-month-old bulldog; Danny "Sazbo" Frias, four-foot-three midweight; and Bill Smiley, 7-year-old nephew of Mac Beall, halfback on the Don eleven.

Little Frias is a "carry-over" mascot from last year. He is a student at Santa Ana Senior high school, where he is manager of the football team. In his capacity of a mascot for the Dons, he acts as water boy and assists the players in many ways.

The 20-year-old midweight has been interested in athletics for a good many years. He is a familiar sight to the many Don football fans as he trots out on the field with the water for the players during times out.

Frias is the son of Mrs. Rita Frias, and lives at 1213 Fairview. The second member of the Don mascot trio is Bill Smiley, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Deane Smiley, 2611 North Flower street.

Mac Beall, his uncle and prominent member of the squad, uses No. 7 on his jersey. Just to sort of keep the numbers "in the family," young Bill uses No. 76 on his red and black jersey—which are the college colors.

Last member of the trio but by no means least is "Mike," the canine mascot. It's "Mike" who leads the players onto the field when game time comes around.

The dog wears a specially made red blanket with the word "Dons" in black letters on the sides.

Frisky "Mike" is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hays, who conduct a cafe near the college.

CARDENAS PLOT SUSPECTS FREED

MEXICO CITY. (AP)—A score or more of men and women were arrested in raids on the headquarters of several Rightist organizations in connection with what had been reliably reported as a plot on the life of President Lazaro Cardenas, were released today.

A box of dynamite was seized at one of the places by judicial police and investigators connected with Cardenas' private secretariat. A source close to the presidential palace said last night, at the time of the raids, that evidence of a conspiracy to dynamite Cardenas' special train had been uncovered.

The conspiracy was to have been put into execution, he said, the next time the president set out from the capital to visit the Mexican interior.

Trapped Miners Saved from Death

MINERSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Two miners, trapped for more than 20 hours behind several hundred tons of rock and coal, were rescued today, apparently uninjured.

The miners, Harry Hunter, 44, of Wiconisco, and Albert Muraski, 34, of Primrose, were taken to a hospital for observation.

CHILD HURT WHEN FIRE GUTS HOME

Three-Months-Old Baby Blistered

Heroic efforts of her fear-maddened parents saved a three-months-old girl from blazing death in Orange yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Umbarger were terrified to see the interior of their home on West Collins avenue in flames when Mrs. Umbarger returned from summoning her husband from across the street yesterday. They shoved open the front door, groped through smoke and falling embers from the flaming ceiling and finally brought the child, Bonnie Colleen, from the home suffering from slight burns.

Mrs. Umbarger had lighted a heating stove in the home and stepped from the house for just a few minutes, State Forester Joe Scherman said. When the parents opened the front door, they were greeted by a sheet of flame and smoke, and were forced to grope through the burning dwelling to rescue the tot.

Burning embers had blistered the baby, but she was otherwise unharmed, Scherman said.

The state forestry department received the fire call at 4:20 p. m. and arrived at the scene four minutes later. Scherman said. Damage to furniture and other personal effects was estimated at about $300.

BRITON SETS SPEED MARK

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS. (AP)—Capt. George Eyston of England today set a new world's land speed record of 311.42 miles per hour.

The genial captain from London flashed through the mile and back again in "Thunderbolt," a 24-cylinder 7-ton racing giant, for an average of 11.56 seconds.

Eyston's speed, the fastest man has ever traveled in an automobile, exceeded Sir Malcolm Campbell's record of 301.1292 miles per hour by a wide margin.

Campbell's mark, which withstood two previous assaults by Eyston, was achieved here in September, 1935.

Eyston, a thin, scholarly man of 40 who retired from the British army several years ago, clipped the northward mile in 11.79 seconds for an average speed of 305.34 miles per hour, and then sped back in 11.33 seconds for an almost unbelievable mark of 317.74 miles per hour.

Outlaw Campus 'Rowdys'

By BRADEN FINCH

Football relations between Santa Ana and Fullerton schools are at the breaking point because a few boys with immature judgment have carelessly and selfishly shattered traditions of good sportsmanship by campus rowdism.

The high school game for next year already has been cancelled by school authorities.

The junior college game on Thanksgiving day next week is jeopardized.

Mental workings of the youthful gangs who are responsible for the "raids" and fights are hard to understand.

In previous years a high plane of good fellowship has prevailed. Clean sportsmanship has been evident between the student bodies, as well as the teams.

The selfish action of the small groups to blame apparently will cost thousands of people the annual thrill of the football games between the two communities.

Such a break between Santa Ana and Fullerton might be avoided, however, if the youths responsible step forward and shoulder the blame, and the student bodies of the respective institutions get busy and pledge themselves to clean sportsmanship in the future.

LOCAL INSTITUTION ADOPTS HOSPITALIZATION PROGRAM

HOSPITAL INSURANCE PLAN SET

You can go to St. Joseph's hospital for three cents a day!

At least you can after Jan. 15, under a plan announced today by Dr. J. M. Burlew, Santa Ana, director of the Associated Hospital Service of Southern California.

St. Joseph's is one of a group of approximately 50 California hospitals cooperating in the non-profit plan, first worked out this week at a meeting in Los Angeles.

THREE CENTS A DAY

That three cents a day, however, will be in the nature of hospital insurance premiums, to be paid by subscribing members in the association. Members will be enabled to secure adequate hospital care when they need it, without the usual burden of expense. The plan was authorized by the last legislature.

Dr. Burlew announced that the association will be prepared to accept subscribers after Jan. 15. Payment of premiums will entitle subscribers to hospitalization at any of the Southern California hospitals certified by the state board of health.

LIKE INSURANCE

The plan will be established, it was explained, on the cooperative principle, and fashioned after that now in use in New York city. Full details have not been worked out, but it was indicated requirements for membership will be virtually the same as for other types of insurance. Members probably will be accepted in groups, following physical examinations.

The board of directors of the corporation includes doctors and health workers from virtually all the communities affected by the plan, with Dr. Burlew the only Santa Ana member.

MEMBER HOSPITALS

Member hospitals include: Alhambra hospital; Las Campanas, Compton; Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital; and Physicians and Surgeons hospital, Glendale.

SHERIFF ASKS RAISE IN PAY

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz asks restoration of a cut in his salary from $12,000 to $9,000, made in 1934, in a letter on file with the board of supervisors today.

Salary reductions of other county, state and city employees made during the economic depression have been restored, the sheriff pointed out, and he requested that his pay be raised to the former figure, effective Dec. 3.

A single objection to consideration, which required unanimous consent.

A similar resolution was being considered for the senate. Senator Nye (R., N. D.) said a bi-partisan group of senators would meet next week to determine whether such a measure should be drafted.

A house tax sub-committee tentatively agreed today to increase the exemptions from the undistributed profits tax and to make up some of the revenue that would be lost by boosting the normal corporate tax.

SIGN REMOVED

In the anti-lynching debate, Connally demanded removal of a big sign condemning lynching from the wall of the senate chamber.

The house rivers and harbors committee ordered hearings to begin next Tuesday on regional planning, a point in President Roosevelt's program for the special congressional session.

Prospects improved for enacting wage-hour standards and crop control legislation, other points in the President's program, before congress quits for the Christmas holidays.

Both the 6th and 75th wedding anniversaries are called "diamond weddings."

SCHOOLS FACE SPORT SPLIT

From student-body rivalry ceases. In the meantime, the Santa Ana campus seethed with rumors and accusations, as the "victory flag," about which a small war has been waged this week, disappeared today shortly after it was raised at 7:30 a. m.

Jaycee officials voiced a plea to the entire student body to "help us keep our pledge," in order to avert cancellation of the Turkey Day game, which would automatically give San Bernardino the conference championship.

Student body leaders blamed today's disappearance of the victory flag on Santa Ana students.

NO RAIDING PARTIES

An inter-school promise made today pledged that "raiding parties" would visit neither campus in the interval between now and next Thursday's game time.

First invasion of the North Main street campus occurred Wednesday, when a group of Fullerton students were repulsed after an attempt to tear down the flag. Yesterday a crowd of approximately 50 visited the campus, but turned back when they discovered Santa Ana officials had taken down the flag for safekeeping.

From the high school, Principal Lynn Crawford announced that "owing to strained relationships between student bodies" officials had agreed to terminate girdon rivalry.

HIGH SCHOOLS BREAK

"The action," he said, "is in no way to be interpreted as a vindictive one, or as severance of athletic relationships. We simply have too much trouble. It is practice game, yet results in injuries, small financial gain, and extreme high feeling between students. For that reason we have decided not to schedule it in the future."

The move to cancel future meetings was taken this week at a conference of county school principals. Crawford said. It was followed by a meeting of officials of Santa Ana and Fullerton, at which the decision was reached.

A near-rout followed the Armistice Day encounter between the two teams, played in Fullerton.

Halt Uprising In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon. (AP)—The Lebanese government today decreed dissolution of all unofficial military and semi-military organizations "to safeguard the national union."

The decree was aimed at the fascist Lebanese phalanx, an organization of 10,000 persons, the smaller semi-fascist White Shirts and the Najjidi organizations which government spokesmen said threatened to divide the country or "create an atmosphere of agitation and anarchy."

Scores Ill from Poisoned Fish

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Health Commissioner Francis E. Fronczak today declared under control a severe outbreak here of gastroenteritis among persons who ate poisoned fish.

Scores were taken ill with the intestinal ailment after eating fish poisoned by industrial waste in the Niagara river here, 15 miles above Niagara Falls.

Millions of fish were killed by the waste and floated ashore.

MANILA STORM TOLL HITS 46

MANILA, P. I. (AP)—Deaths from the Philippine islands' second typhoon within a week jumped to 46 today with many missing as reports of sea disasters were received here.

The fishing boat Miss Liloan sank near Masabate. Only one member of a crew of 31 was known to have been saved. The inter-island passenger carrier Marin Duqueno was unreported and apprehension was felt for its safety.

Other boats in the Masabate region were unaccounted for. Three Japanese fishing boats sank off Molocabo and Iloilo. Four Japanese of a crew of six were reported drowned on one of the ships. The fate of the other fishermen was not known.

Thirteen passengers and sailors were missing after the motorboat Guban sank off Leyte. The motorship Camotes went down in the same vicinity, taking one member of the crew and three passengers to their deaths. Six others were missing.

Northern Cebu province, caught in the vortex of the typhoon, reported it the worst in its history. Sixty per cent of the homes in some sectors were reported demolished.

Manila, just recovering from the Armistice day typhoon, suffered minor damages today from high winds and heavy rains.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

If there is no deviation from my usual custom, it will remain there. Fishing interests me when the boys bring 'em to me, and one time they handed me a fish which jumped right out of my hand. It was a nice mountain trout, and wanted to get back home.

And it remained for Lieutenant Commander Williams to tell us something about "Santa Ana winds" we didn't care to hear. However, his explanation was acceptable, as it afforded an alibi, but no matter who tries to rescue us from the opprobrium, it will remain until the end of time, simply because it has become a custom to refer to them "as such."

And then Lloyd Willcutt, in a congratulatory missive, advised me to stick to the Bible; that it will do me more good than Webster. I believe him. So far I have been able to get along with both of them without developing any incompatibility. They are a couple of safe guide posts. When some of the spelling of my young friends comes within my observation, I am convinced they need Webster, and occasionally their conduct would suggest a closer familiarity with the precepts of the Good Book.

could think of was to destroy that thing."

Kimmel, 32, an airplane operation manager and married, had accompanied him home, Wright had told police, early on the morning of Nov. 9, after a round of drinking in Hollywood. He said they had more drinks with Mrs. Wright and he went into a bedroom for a nap, later to awake and find the two embracing on the piano bench.

Jerry Geisler, Wright's attorney, drew from police officers who went to the home testimony that Kimmel's trousers were "disarranged," but they said Mrs. Wright's clothing was not. County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner testified all the bullets striking Mrs. Wright entered from the back, while Kimmel's body wounds were in the front.

GROANING VICTIM

Deputy District Attorney Harry Hunt, who contends the slayings were deliberate, asked Policeman Harry Reed if Wright made any statement at the house.

"Wright pointed to Kimmel, who was groaning," Reed said, "and cried: 'Get that moaning—out of here. I can't stand it.'"

Reed testified that when he and another officer reached the home, Wright met them outside, "grabbed my arm and tore my sleeve."

"He said," Reed continued: "My God, I'm a murderer. I've shot my wife and best friend."

NOT HYSTERICAL

Questioned by Geisler, Reed said Wright was not hysterical or crying, but was nervous and "kept repeating that he had killed his wife and his best friend."

The officer said he heard Wright telephone his father, J. J. Wright, in Milwaukee:

"There's been a terrible tragedy here. I've killed Evelyn. It happened just as you said it would. I caught her cheating. You'll stand by me, won't you?"

Police asked Wright, their statement showed, if he suspected Kimmel and his wife were "particularly intimate" and he replied, "no, not she and Kimmel, but I had suspected her on many occasions with others."

The bill said they were married in 1930 in Crown Point, Ind., while English was with the Chicago Cubs.

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—A graphic camera portrayal of the deadliness of the battle between Folsom prison officials and convicts in the asserted prison break attempt was the state's offensive today in its effort to send five convicts to the gas chamber for the death of Warden Clarence A. Larkin.

The photographs were taken by Roger S. Greene, of the state bureau of criminal identification. They show the body-strewn battle field within the prison walls and the position and nature of the wounds sustained by the victims.

HIGH SCHOOL 'INADEQUATE'

ST. LOUIS. (AP)—Dr. John A. Sexson, superintendent of schools at Pasadena, Calif., told Missouri public school teachers here that high schools as they now exist "must be abandoned because of their inadequacy in preparing youth for life."

He said his city has already broken with tradition and established a new form of education. "The traditional American high school has been supplanted by an eight-year secondary school," he asserted, "beginning at the seventh grade and terminating with the fourteenth."

A fellowship hour Sunday morning, completion of competitive events and award of prizes will feature Sunday's program, with the official farewell slated for 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

TUBBS WINS JUG OF CIDER

With a sheaf of medals dangling from his chest, Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs walked off with half a jug of cider last night, as he shared with Miss Corinne Clements of the probation department honors for the best costume at last night's party given by county employees in Irvine park pavilion.

Miss Clements was dressed in an old-fashioned costume. More than 100 employees and their families attended the meeting, the first social gathering since reorganization of the county employees' association.

Laura Joiner, tax collector's office employee, sang two songs as part of the entertainment and refreshments of pie, coffee, and apples were served.

ICKES SLAMS U. S. WALTON LEAGUES

Describes Sportsmen As 'Pressure Lobby'

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Secretary Ickes denounced the Izaak Walton League "as a pressure lobby for undisclosed interests" today because the league circulated its membership to oppose transfer of federal conservation agencies to the interior department in the president's reorganization bill.

Ickes is a member of the league and an outspoken advocate of the reorganization bill which would centralize all federal conservation activities in the interior department.

Replying to the league circular, the secretary fired a series of questions at Otto C. Doering, Chicago, executive vice president of the league, demanding to know how the league came to the conclusion the bill's conservation proposals "carry a most sinister attack on conservation of wild life, forestry and similar activities."

AUTHORITY HITS DUCHESS' WALK

HOLLYWOOD, (AP) — The "furtive walk" of the Duchess of Windsor came in for a panning today. "It is an unbecoming fact that American women, particularly the younger set, are adopting that stoop and sidwinding gait emulated by the duchess," Ellen G. Kane, New York dancing and social authority, told the Women's club of Hollywood. "This constant and ever-increasing aping is seriously threatening to make this a generation of 'furtive walkers'."

Miss O'Kane said the duchess is far too stooped, and her stride more characteristic of that of a hiker than of a woman bred to the drawing room.

"Actually one might as well copy the slink of Mae West, or the sinuous movement of that early vamp, Theda Bara," said Miss O'Kane. "For the Duchess of Windsor is definitely not to be copied in posture."

Dynamite Pillow Brings Sudden Death to Man

BAKERSFIELD, (AP) — Dock Detrick, 65, put on his best suit today, placed eight sticks of dynamite under his head and committed suicide by touching off the fuse, Undersheriff Rea Pyle said.

The suicide blast wrecked the kitchen of the Angus Green ranch home in Bear Valley where the dynamiting occurred. Detrick's torso was left intact but the head was gone, Pyle said.

Detrick, Pyle said, served 10 years in prison for a slaying in San Bernardino and he often brooded over what he considered an unjust incarceration. He was employed on the ranch.

Wyoming Gets Year's Lowest Temperature

DOMELAKE, Wyo., (AP) — An official temperature of 14 degrees below zero was recorded yesterday at Dome Lake, nestled in the Big Horn mountains of North Central Wyoming.

Seven and a half inches of snow fell.

Lighter snowfall covered most of Montana, Wyoming and Northern Colorado.

High Building Awe's Traveler

He got that old feeling when he came to New York and saw horse-drawn ice wagons and forthwith he termed the metropolis "old-fashioned." For Ralph Schmidt, 9, traveling alone from San Francisco to Berlin, will have you know at home ice wagons "are electric." But up in the Chrysler tower, looking out across Manhattan's spires, he seemed to change his mind.

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — In 1920 Nicholas Bogomoletz was a major general of the White Russian army, commanding Siberian troop trains in a war against the bolsheviks.

Today he was a bent-backed, gray-haired shoe repairman of 65, called from his cubbyhole shop in Hollywood to fight in federal court for his right to American citizenship.

Against him was raised the specter of a bloody incident 17 years ago when a platoon of American soldiers at Posolsky, seeking to halt the pillaging of towns along the Trans-Siberian railway, was raked with machine gun fire from the armored Russian train, Destroyer.

CHILD BRIDE, 12, IS MOTHER

BERRYVILLE, Ark., (AP) — Attendants at a Berryville hospital disclosed today the birth of a six-pound son to 12-year-old Mrs. Willis Hookersmith of the Oak Grove community, north of here.

The former Wanda Hayhurst, the young mother is the wife of a 19-year-old farmer. They were married at Gove, Kan., early this year.

'Baby Bride' to Seek Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — The marriage of 13-year-old Gladys Stafford Robbins to 23-year-old Forest Robbins failed after six months of wedded life, an annulment suit asserted here today.

Mrs. Lois Marsh asked a court to annul the marriage which took place last summer at Las Vegas, Nev. Mrs. Marsh said she wanted Gladys to go back to school.

SHAW SEEKS HELP FOR L. A. PROJECTS

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Mayor Frank L. Shaw of Los Angeles had an appointment for a conference today with Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins which he said he expected would "go a long way" towards solving relief and airport problems in his city.

"I would not be surprised if we succeeded in eliminating the last obstacle barring release of $1,400,000 of WPA funds for expenditures on the new municipal airport at Mines Field," the mayor said.

The project's cost per man per day was all that stood in the way of the application, he said, now that the city has acquired title to Mines Field.

He said a continuation of the WPA program in Los Angeles at least during the remainder of the fiscal year is imperative, because business and industry have failed to absorb the city's unemployed.

"We need $30,000,000 to take us to next July," he asserted, estimating that five federal dollars would be required for each dollar the city provided to continue its program.

'BISON BILL' DEATH VICTIM

TULSA, Okla., (AP) — Scout Younger, 64, Wild West "bad man" in the early days of motion pictures, died yesterday of a brain ailment.

"He really wasn't an outlaw," said his middle-aged widow, Pauline, who rode with her husband as a cowgirl in shows.

"He was such a good showman and talked so much about 'the Younger and Dalton gangs that he finally believed his stories himself. The only time he was arrested in his life was back about 1897, in Greenville, S. C., the charge was that he had some bad meat in the butcher shop he was running."

The Youngers traveled widely. Once Younger was billed as "Bison Bill" in the same circus with Pawnee Bill and Buffalo Bill.

Adam and Eve To Be Joined in Marriage Rite

PITTSBURGH, (AP) — Adam and Eve will be married Saturday. They are a radio team, Adam is Jack H. Orrison and Eve is Margaret K. Smith.

The wedding will culminate a romance begun on the University of Denver campus.

BLAME TAXES IN BUILDING COST TALKS

WASHINGTON, (AP) — John Mc C. Moberg of Baltimore, chairman of the housing committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, blamed "unreasonable taxes and excessive interest rates" today for high housing costs.

He said in an address prepared for the United States Chamber of Commerce's housing conference that if these costs stay up, "government will surely and slowly take over the supervision of the mass housing field."

Moberg estimated that the annual income value of all real property was about six billion dollars and said the taxes on it totaled four and one half billion a year.

The housing conference was called by the chamber of commerce to seek ways of stimulating residential construction, one proposal by President Roosevelt for checking the present business recession.

Wilson Compton, secretary of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, told the 300 attending that while building costs had gone up, technological improvements had more than kept pace and the buyer now got "10 per cent more house for the dollar" that he did 10 years ago.

FIGHT SLIDE WITH DYNAMITE

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — Elysian Park's earth slide will have to stop or the Los Angeles board of public works may dynamite it out of existence.

Thousands of tons of earth have been slipping from Grand View point in the park, directly above the heavily-travelled Riverside drive, since last week. Motorists' lives have been imperiled and only the outside lane of the thoroughfare is being kept open.

The commissioner of public works said that if the slide doesn't stop it might be a good idea to blow up the foothill by sections and cart it away in dump trucks.

King Leopold Saves Workman From Falling

LONDON, (AP) — The visiting King Leopold of the Belgians moved a quick hand today to save 71-year-old O. Gippett from a fall.

Gippett, one of 15 elderly workers in a leather factory given medals by Leopold, stumbled while ascending the steps to the king's dias. The monarch reached down swiftly, helped him up and asked if he were all right.

The honored factory was founded by an Anglo-Belgian group.

GUNS CAUSE 'QUAKE FEAR'

Awakened by violent earth tremors lasting 12 minutes people living near Lorient, France, had an earthquake scare recently. The "earthquake" has been explained. The three French battleships, Bretagne, Lorraine and Provence, were holding night firing practice off Belle Ile with their 13-inch guns.

BEAR HURLS ROCKS

Farmers living near Polog, Macedonia, declare that a huge, sheep-killing bear won a battle with dogs by throwing rocks at them. After two dogs had been crushed to death, the others fled and the bear disappeared into the forest carrying a sheep which it had killed.

DO GOLFERS APPRECIATE CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS?

It means a lot that famous golfers like Gene Sarazen, Helen Hicks, Lawson Little, and Ralph Guldahl, agree in their preference for Camels. They have found that costlier tobaccos do place Camels in a class apart. Listen to Ralph Guldahl, National Open Champion: "I've stuck to Camels for 10 years," he says. "I smoke lots of Camels and I've never known them to jangle my nerves. That partly explains why so many golfers are loyal Camel smokers."

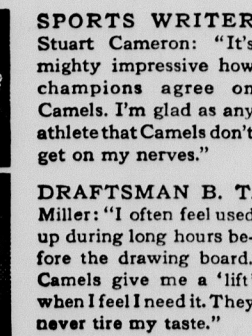

And not only golfers, but people in all walks of life—millions of Americans—prefer Camels day after day after day, making them the LARGEST-SELLING cigarette in America...or the world.

SALESGIRL Elsie Schumacher: "When the rush gets me 'worn out'—it's me for a Camel, and I get a quick 'lift.' Practically all of us girls in the store prefer Camels."

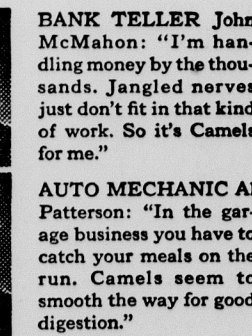

WATCHMAKER I. C. Gorkun says: "Camels? Say, every Camel I smoke seems to be milder and tastier than the last one. Camels don't leave me feeling 'smoked out.'"

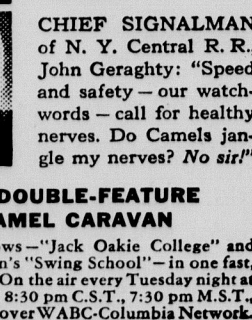

SPORTS WRITER Stuart Cameron: "It's mighty impressive how champions agree on Camels. I'm glad as any athlete that Camels don't get on my nerves."

DRAFTSMAN B. T. Miller: "I often feel used up during long hours before the drawing board. Camels give me a 'lift' when I feel I need it. They never tire my taste."

BANK TELLER John McMahon: "I'm handling money by the thousands. Jangled nerves just don't fit in that kind of work. So it's Camels for me."

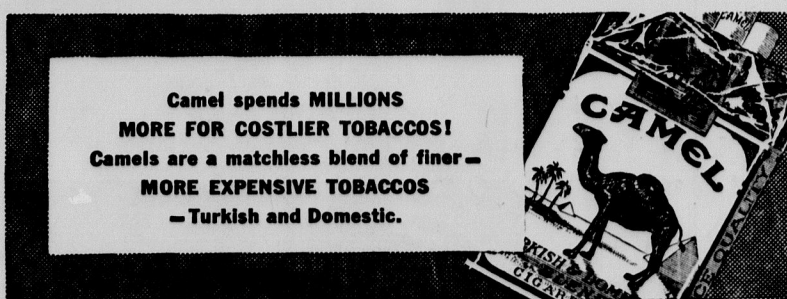

AUTO MECHANIC Al Patterson: "In the garage business you have to catch your meals on the run. Camels seem to smooth the way for good digestion."

CHIEF SIGNALMAN of N. Y. Central R.R., John Garaghty: "Speed and safety—our watchwords—call for healthy nerves. Do Camels jangle my nerves? No sir!"

U. S. SLUM PROJECT DEFENDED

No Competition With Business, Claim

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Nathan Straus, administrator of the United States Housing Authority, assured the United States Chamber of Commerce housing conference today the authority's program would not compete with the private building industry.

He told 300 representatives of the building industry and chambers of commerce, assembled to consider means of stimulating private construction that "no competition with private industry is contemplated by me or, if I read the law right, is even possible under the act."

Straus, called by President Roosevelt to direct the $500,000,000 program authorized by the Wagner-Steagall housing act, said the authority's activities would be directed entirely at rehousing slum dwellers.

"We want to use our funds not to house a few families in idyllic homes, but to house as many slum dwellers as possible in decent homes," he said.

Gerrish Cassaway, secretary of the Wilmington, Del., Chamber of Commerce, said the conference should demand that the government restrict itself to the field of providing housing for sub-normal income groups.

The President should ask labor, he said, "to accept the responsibility of assuring the buying public that projects once started will not be delayed and disrupted by labor disputes and strikes."

WAR ON SOCIAL DISEASE LAUDED

Between 25,000 and 40,000 Californians have syphilis or gonorrhea. Chances for control are better now that the social taboo on discussion of venereal diseases has been removed.

These statements, in substance, were made yesterday by Dr. K. H. Sutherland, Orange county health officer, before the meeting of the southern district, California Federation of Women's Clubs, at Long Beach.

Dr. Sutherland discussed methods of controlling syphilis, gonorrhea, tuberculosis and cancer from a public health standpoint.

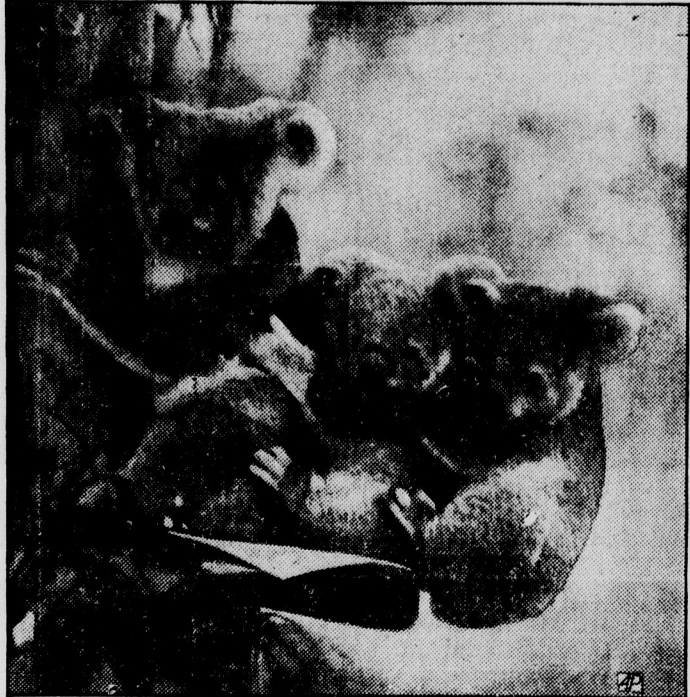

Public clinics and cooperation of private physicians were stressed by the speaker as the best means for cutting down the venereal disease list. Efforts of the state health department toward establishment of clinics were explained, as well as special courses in public schools and a wide program of education for laymen.

"The venereal disease program is here to stay," said Dr. Sutherland. "With energetic control measures continuously applied, we can expect results."

Control of tuberculosis, he said, depends on discovery of spreaders of infection early in their disease, isolation and care. Early symptoms must be impressed on the public mind, he explained, with the importance of annual physical examinations for all.

Cancer, he said, "can be frequently cured if it is recognized and properly treated in its early stages."

TURKEY TASTING TOUGH! Bird - Nibblers Dislike Job

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Eating turkey hour after hour gets to be a tedious business, a volunteer in the agricultural department's taste tests said today.

"It keeps you from wanting any dinner," sighed Rob. R. Slocum of the bureau of agricultural economics. "It even can make you tired of turkey. At the moment I don't care for any."

Slocum said he and five partners couldn't relax and enjoy the free meal.

They had to pass judgment on aroma, texture, flavor of fat, flavor of lean, tenderness, quantity of juice and general conclusions—in such degrees as desirable, neutral, tough, pronounced, coarse, fine, good and poor.

OCEAN FREIGHT RATES TO JUMP

LONDON. (AP)—A 10-per cent increase in ocean freight rates from the United Kingdom of Eastern Canada and United States ports, effective Jan. 1, was announced today by the transatlantic conference.

Rates to North Pacific ports will be increased for most cargoes, the officials announced. The new rates will be adopted by the 15 lines embraced by the conference.

Former Exchange Head Succumbs

NEW YORK. (AP)—Jay F. Carlisle, 69, former member of the board of governors of the New York stock exchange, died yesterday after a 10-day illness.

CREW BLASTS THROUGH HILL

Reorganized Metropolitan Water District crews on the San Jacinto tunnel are blasting their way through stubborn granite at a rate of 25 feet per day, exceeding by four feet a day progress made up to the time of the recent CIO strike, construction reports released today indicate.

Crews have driven the tunnel a total of 2235 feet since Aug. 14. During the first 15 days of November, the 110 men working on the 13-mile shaft excavated 554 feet of the 18-foot diameter bore, at an average rate of 37 feet each day.

Today's report indicates that approximately three and a half miles remain to be excavated in the tunnel which is being driven from the Potrero and Cabazon shafts.

One of the links in the 392-mile MWD aqueduct, the San Jacinto tunnel will be the last of 38 tunnels to be completed. Altogether, there are 103 miles of tunnels on the aqueduct, which will carry a billion gallons of water a day from the Colorado River to 13 cities on Southern California's coastal plain.

DEPORT PAL OF IL DUCE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The labor department has ordered the deportation of Magda De Fontanges, French journalist who shot Count Charles De Chambrai last spring because, she said, he broke up her "unforgettable hours" with Premier Mussolini.

Magda, who received a suspended sentence for the shooting, arrived in New York Nov. 8 to take a job in a New York night club. Immigration authorities held her at Ellis Island on the grounds of moral turpitude.

Department officials said she would be deported on a boat sailing Saturday.

VISALIA. (AP)—The body of William B. Williams, 55, with the skull crushed, was found in a tent today. Sheriff's deputies questioned his partner, Lunsford Swan, 37, a cotton picker.

An identification card in Williams' pocket said to notify G. A. Borden of Hever, Calif., in case of accident.

Courts Release Nazi Leader

BUDAPEST, Hungary. (AP)—The court of appeals today freed Ferenc Szalasau, leader of the Nazi Party of National Will, who was charged with conspiring to establish a Nazi regime in Hungary.

The tribunal suspended one three month sentence imposed by the lower court and referred another of one month to a trial court.

A political police unit seized Szalasau and 24 others on charges of high treason April 16. The government ordered dissolution of the group Szalasau headed.

FBI HEAD GETS APOLOGY FROM CHIEF

Dillinger 'Murder' Charge Decried

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — Police Chief William J. Quinn today proffered a public apology to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, for a statement reported to have been made by a San Francisco police inspector who charged "government men murdered Dillinger."

The inspector, Dan O'Neill was quoted as having made the accusation in a speech today to railway detectives. O'Neill is head of the police identification bureau. "O'Neill does not express the views of the department," Chief Quinn said. "I wish to publicly apologize to Mr. Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and to members of his bureau."

JUDGE'S SON GETS CLIENT

Having chalked up a 1,000 batting average with a habeas corpus writ, Adrian Marks, son of Associate Justice E. J. Marks of the fourth district court of appeals, set about today to win his first civil suit.

Young Marks, who was admitted to law practice just this year, won his first legal skirmish last month, when he secured for Neal Sargent, former San Quentin convict, a second preliminary hearing on burglary charges by freeing him temporarily on a writ of habeas corpus. Sargent later defended himself before a superior court jury and was convicted.

Today Marks had on file his first lawsuit, a personal injury complaint for $10,800 damages against the driver of a car in which a young Santa Ana woman was injured.

The suit was brought by Veda Lee against Bramwell Virgo, marble-machine service operator. She charges Virgo negligently ran through a boulevard stop on Manchester boulevard at Grand avenue last April 25, striking a parked car and injuring her permanently. The plaintiff, she charges in the complaint, was a guest in Virgo's car.

Xmas Window Display Contest

Plans will be worked out this week by Walter Swanberger for the fifth annual Christmas window decoration contest among local merchants. The affair, in the past, is being sponsored by the retail division of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, and will open Saturday, Dec. 4.

Fifty dollars in prizes will be awarded this year. Plans also call for two classifications of awards, one to the larger stores and the others to the smaller shops. The prizes will be given to the window decorators who in the eyes of the judges have done the best bit of work in displaying their respective shop's merchandise.

So that the judging may be done on a basis of merit alone, an effort will be made to secure a committee from out of town to appraise the windows. All merchants are urged by the retail division of the chamber to cooperate in this contest as an added incentive toward making Santa Ana the Christmas shopping center of the county.

Nurses Association To Hold Meeting

Members of the California State Nurses' association of the sixteenth district will convene at a regular meeting in the Orange County Hospital Nurses' Residence this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A special session of the New York legislature in 1936 lasted only three hours.

Major road racing honors throughout the world this year have gone to the Nazis.

Plan Curb of Elixir Sales

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The house adopted a resolution today directing the agricultural department to report on the sale of sulfanilamide elixir.

Representative Chapman (D-Ky.) who offered the resolution, said he wished to determine the truth of reports that some 80 persons had died from the effects of the drug. The senate recently adopted a similar measure.

SEATTLE, (AP)—Male members here of the American Students' union, a University of Washington campus group, resolved last night not to date girls wearing silk stockings, "until Japan removes her troops from China." SENATE QUIZ OPENS ON JOBLESS

WASHINGTON, (AP) — A special senate committee plunged into a comprehensive study of unemployment relief today.

The committee decided, said Chairman Byrnes (D., S.C.) to determine:

1. The total number of unemployed now receiving relief checks.
2. What efforts are needed to reduce both unemployment and dependency on relief checks. (Some of the unemployed receive no checks.)
3. Methods of financing employment and relief programs.
4. The best method of administering unemployment relief.

Public hearings will be held by the committee as soon as the current unemployment relief census is completed, Byrnes said.

Former Pasadena Justice Dies

PASADENA, (AP) — Funeral services were planned today for Elliott Gibbs, 49, former Pasadena justice of the peace and one-time member of the University of Southern California track team, who died suddenly yesterday.

LOYALISTS OPEN NEW BOMB RAID

Defender Attack Damages Rebels

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier. (AP)—Spanish government artillery pounded insurgent positions today in the Zuera and Fuentes de Ebro sectors of the middle Aragon front, a Barcelona communique reported, and caused considerable damage.

The attacks were a continuation of the tactics of harassing the insurgent forces to disorganize their prospective "big push" toward the eastern coast through government territory between Barcelona and Valencia.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco, also hampered by heavy rains and muddy roads along the 200-mile Aragon battlefield, took advantage of the delay to regroup his forces. A general attack along the entire line when the weather improves was in prospect.

Border dispatches said the insurgent chieftain was withdrawing some troops from the Aragon and sending them to the Madrid and Almeria fronts.

On the Madrid front insurgents besieging the one-time capital of the Spanish republic exploded a mine in a woods near University City which the government admitted damaged Madrid's north-western barricades.

Duke, Duchess, Get Small Space In Social Rating

NEW YORK. (AP)—The 1938 edition of the New York social register appeared today with "Windor-Warfield" occupying only one line in the back of the book, under "marriages of 1937."

Ernest A. Simpson, former husband of the duchess, was dropped from the book.

In the summer edition, "HRH Duke of Windsor" had been listed under the "W's," and on the next line was "Mrs. Wallis Warfield (Spencer-Simpson)" with the notation, "Married at Monte Carlo, June 3."

A year ago, Simpson's name was listed with the address, "Guards club, London," and a few lines below it, "Mrs. Warfield Simpson, Cumberland terrace, London."

Dempsey's Wife May Leave Stage

PHILADELPHIA. (AP)—Hannah Williams, who thrilled Broadway singing "Cheerful Little Earful," was undecided today about a stage comeback.

The little singer—Mrs. Jack Dempsey—said she would like to go home to her two babies Saturday and let Ed Wynn's "Hurrah for What!" get along without her.

But there's the matter of a contract.

"No, I'm not coming down for the show, what's the use," Mrs. Dempsey's quitting Saturday night—coming back home."

Monrovia Man Killed by Train

MONROE, La. (AP)—A man identified from papers in his pockets as Orion L. McLain, 35, of Monrovia, Calif., was killed between the cars of a westbound Illinois Central freight train near here yesterday.

Two witnesses told county authorities he fell from a car on which he was riding.

3 TEACHERS TO DIE

MOSCOW. (AP)—A woman and two men were sentenced to death today in a Leningrad school case on charges of mistreating students and endeavoring to provoke dissatisfaction with the Soviet regime. Eight others must serve 10 to 20 years in prison.

Doris Duke's Hubby May Become Senator

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—The Newark News said today James H. R. Cromwell, husband of Doris Duke, "can be the next United States senator from New Jersey if he wants to be."

Senator A. Harry Moore, New Jersey's governor-elect, "is reportedly prepared to designate Cromwell for Washington immediately after Moore begins his third term as governor," the newspaper said.

"Moore could not be reached for comment today," it added.

The News pointed out Mrs. Cromwell's "adherence to the Democratic cause showed up in the 1936 campaign in the form of a $50,000 contribution to the New Deal war chest."

CITY MANAGER PLAN LAUDED

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Operation of the city manager form of government in eight key cities of the nation was pronounced a success at the 43rd annual meeting of the National Municipal League here today.

The spokesmen voiced their faith in the success of a plan now in operation in 466 United States cities. More than 150 additional cities are studying the plan, Howard P. Jones, secretary of the league, said.

Pays Alimony For 28 Years; Gets Tired

CHICAGO. (AP)—Friends of Tom Harmon were wont to liken his patience to that of Job, his regularity to that of a good time-piece.

For 48 years he worked as a mail clerk without a murmur of complaint. But 28 years of alimony payments have finally broken down the Harmon reserve.

He filed a petition yesterday to vacate the alimony order under which "he has paid more than $8000 in installments of $25 on the first of each month for nearly three decades.

Harmon, now 65, said the marriage lasted 16 months and that a daughter, Josephine, was born three months after he and his wife separated. Mrs. Harmon, who now lives with her married daughter, was asked if she would oppose the petition.

"Anything I had to say was said 28 years ago," she replied.

Pomona College Willed $10,000

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Bequest of $10,000 for the Pomona college library was contained today in the will of Mrs. Laura Wiley, Glendora, on file for probate. The will disposed of an estate valued at more than $350,000. The Los Angeles Orthopaedic Foundation and the Los Angeles Children's hospital each were left $25,000.

Gene Tunney Becomes Banker

NEW YORK. (AP)—Gene Tunney, former prize fighter, is now a banker.

The Morris Plan Industrial bank announced today the one-time heavyweight champion had been elected to the board of directors.

PICKETS OUSTED

EL CENTRO. (AP)—Work went ahead today on power drop No. 4 of the All-American canal after dispersal of 35 union pickets by Sheriff B. W. Ware.

Two San Pedro organizers, H. W. Walker and Charles A. Evans, were taken into custody, but later released. They complained the canal section was the only one where non-union pile drivers and operating engineers were employed.

STOCKHOLM. (AP) — Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, former member of the British cabinet and noted advocate of the League of Nations, today was awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1937. Viscount Cecil, perhaps better known by his former name, Lord Robert Cecil, is president of the League of Nations union. He was one of the principal drafters of the league covenant. Viscount Cecil today was a visitor in New York, having been the guest of President Roosevelt at the White House last week-end. The Nobel peace prize is awarded by a committee of five elected by the Norwegian Storting.

MOSCOW. (AP) — The Soviet government went outside its diplomatic service today in choosing envoys to Latvia and Estonia. I. S. Zotoff, a professor of political economy, was named minister to Latvia and Kuzma Nikitin, teachers' college professor, became minister to Estonia.

Plane Controlled by Radio

The pilot stays on the ground when this radio-controlled plane goes aloft for naval anti-aircraft and aerial gunnery practice near Portsmouth, England. Known as the "Queen Wasp," the ship can be catapulted pilotless into the air where a robot controls its flight in response to radio direction from the ground.

Weather Ruins Argentine Wheat

WASHINGTON. (AP) — The bureau of agricultural economics said today reports from Buenos Aires indicated that recent frosts had caused a 30,000,000 bushel damage to the Argentine wheat crop. The bureau estimated the prospective crop at 200,000,000 bushels.

Kansas College Leader Dies

SALINAS, Kan., (AP) — Dr. Larkin Bruce Bowers, 60, president of Kansas Wesleyan University, died today of injuries received Tuesday in an automobile accident caused by icy pavement. Dr. Bowers had been president of Kansas Wesleyan for 18 years. The widow and a son survive.

PILLS NOW IN DISCREDIT

"We're relegating pills and poisons to the scrap heap." Thus Dr. John Bulpitt, Santa Ana physician, summarized modern trends in medicine yesterday afternoon as he spoke to fellow members of the Lions club on things he and 10 other Santa Ana doctors learned last month at the International Post Graduate Medical Assembly in St. Louis.

Orange county, with 12 per cent of its medical practitioners at the session, was the best represented section of the country as the assembly. The group meets yearly to hear papers on modern trends in medicine.

Diet, X-ray and surgery are taking the place of the old medicines to a great degree, Dr. Bulpitt said.

Medicine has stamped out early diseases so that more and more persons are dying of the so-called "degenerative" diseases like tuberculosis and cancer, rather than losing their lives at early ages through other illnesses.

"Medicine and surgery," said Dr. Bulpitt, "are as progressive today as the automobile industry."

Dr. Bulpitt was introduced by Earl Abbey, program chairman, who first presented Clyde Ridge, young pianist, in several solos.

Social Welfare Meeting Slated

LOS ANGELES. (AP) — The state social welfare commission today called a special meeting to decide upon adoption of uniform standards governing selection of state and county social welfare workers.

The meeting will be held in Sacramento on Dec. 16.

Dr. Frank Gigliotti of San Diego said that the welfare board had been "dilly-dallying" on the question and should take action soon.

M'Adoo Flayed as Head of Coal Commission Quits

WASHINGTON. (AP) — George E. Acet, Santa Monica, resigned today as acting director of the Bituminous Coal Commission's division of trial examiners, saying that the commission was "incompetently administered." In a letter to the commission, Acet said Senators Guffey (D., Pa.) and McAdoo (D., Cal.) were "chiefly responsible for the almost complete breakdown" of the commission and proposed a congressional investigation of a factional fight within the commission. His letter added: "I think the fact has never been made public that the fundamental difference existing between the two factions of the commission involves Chairman (Charles F.)

COLLEGE TEST FOR TOMATO New Gift to Juice Addicts

Orange county marketed approximately 17,000 tons of tomatoes during the past year—but a half pound of the crop rapidly is assuming top-ranking performance to agricultural authorities.

This half-pound is known to the tomato-raising gentry as RO-31, and O-32.

They are Orange county's gifts to the tomato industry.

New varieties of tomatoes, Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs explained today, spring up every year. Growers generally bring them posthaste to the commissioner's office, with a request for investigation and report on their possibilities.

Just now, he indicated, it is a race between the University of California College of Agriculture and the Orange county farm office to see whose new tomato passes its academic tests first.

The college today released a broadsheet about its Pearson, a variety obtained by crossing the Cal.55 and the Fargo—but warned growers not to plant it until it has been tested further. "They've got nothing on us," Tubbs said today. "We've been watching RO-31 and O-32 for two years ourselves, and about all we can say is not to plant it until we've tested it further."

As in all scientific experiments, details about both the Pearson and the Orange county variety are not being disseminated, pending results of the testing.

URGES MARINE CORPS BOOST

WASHINGTON. (AP) — Major General Thomas Holcomb, the commandant, recommended today that the marine corps be increased in strength from 17,000 to more than 20,000 men, to keep pace with a growing navy. In his annual report he also proposed a commensurate increase in the number of officers.

Pettengill Heads Military Group

WASHINGTON. (AP) — Rear Admiral George T. Pettengill, commandant of Washington navy yard, is the new president of the Military Order of the Carabos. Pettengill was elected to succeed Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, at a meeting last night. The order was formed by army, navy and marine officers who served in the Philippines during the early days of American occupation.

The American Association of University Women has 730 branches.

SMALL YIELD OF AVOCADOS

Orange county avocado growers today faced a mixed blessing and disaster as they contemplated their fast-ripening crops. This year's yield will be exceptionally small, Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs warned, but as a result, prices probably will be higher. Last year's freeze contributed largely to the small yield.

Only colored Puellas and very mature Fuertes should be marketed as yet, Tubbs said, as ripening is proceeding slowly. Both Fuertes and Puellas are showing good indications, he said.

He warned growers against suddenly overloading the market, if prices are to be kept up.

The new crop throughout the state in general is expected to show about a 15 per cent decrease as compared to last year.

Trees frosted last January, it was explained, now are generally in very healthy condition, with many cultural experts believing it is likely that they may be able to blossom and set a good crop next spring.

RESCUERS MAKE RECORD

In the first eight months of this year 365 lives were saved by lifeboat crews from shipwrecks along the coasts of Great Britain and Ireland. This is the high record for the period in the last 19 years. In August 24 persons were rescued from vessels in distress.

CAKE ICING, TOO

TOO MANY FIANCEES

Copyright, 1937, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Guy Garrison's millionaire Uncle Sherman, irascible invalid, is so insistent upon his getting married that Guy, who is wintering in Miami, sends the old man a photo of Joan Wilton, night-club singer, saying he is engaged to her. Then, he actually becomes engaged to Mabel Lane but, when Uncle Sherman comes to Miami to take him and Joan on a yacht cruise, Guy is afraid to spring a new fiancée on him. He pays Joan to go on the cruise as his "fiancee" Ned Acton, who loves Joan and is opposed to the scheme, gets aboard the yacht as a member of the crew. At Havana, he skips ship and tries to kidnap Joan, but his accomplice gets the wrong girl—Laura Miller, Uncle Sherman's trained nurse. The old man, unconcerned by his nurse's disappearance—in fact, delighted to get from under her thumb—sails from Havana without her, though the captain warns him they are heading into a bad storm.

CHAPTER XXIX

MORNING found the yacht far from shore. A cold, gray morning, with the wind unabated and a driving rain.

The waves were mountainous, threatening to engulf the brave little yacht as her bow burrowed into each one, climbed breath-takingly to the crest, and drove downward into the canyon-like hollow beyond. Her decks were awash continuously, and one of the forward lifeboats had been carried away during the night, but the Nirvana was riding the storm remarkably well.

"No immediate danger," the captain reported to Guy when he appeared on the bridge. "Everything is under control as long as it gets no worse."

The captain's voice was husky, and new lines on his face were grim evidence of the strain he had been under since midnight, keeping his vigil on the bridge.

Bucking a storm like this in a millionaire's yacht was a new experience for Captain Reynolds, though he had braved storms many a time in larger vessels. He had accepted this berth as a sort of sinecure after a long and arduous career upon the sea. For five years, it had been his. That, here, before Sherman Garrison had selected only the calmest weather and the smoothest seas for his pleasure cruises.

Under the circumstances, Captain Reynolds now felt no small degree of resentment. Yachts were supposed to seek snug harborage when a wind blew up. Challenging the elements like this was decidedly an unusual procedure.

The captain's uneasiness was increased by his realization that he didn't know anything about the Nirvana as a bad-weather vessel. He had never had an opportunity to observe her under adverse conditions. She was built for speed and for comfort. Seaworthiness, and safety in heavy weather, had been neglected by the designers in their striving for beautiful lines.

Captain Reynolds had every reason to be worried. A mistake in judgment might result in the loss of a score of lives. His crew as well as yacht were untried in adversity. Fair-weather sailors, chosen more for servants than for seamenlike qualities, already half of them were sick and the others frightened.

"SHE'S pitching pretty badly!" Guy gasped, sliding across the bridge as the Nirvana's bow lifted sliding back as she catapulted over the crest of a comb.

Captain Reynolds nodded grimly. "But your uncle insists that we hold to our course."

"I know," Guy clung to a post for support. "He's acting queerly," the captain ventured, darting a keen glance at Guy.

"That's putting it mildly!" Guy's face was haggard with strain. "Captain Reynolds stroked his clipped gray mustache, thoughtfully staring with red-rimmed eyes across the endless surge of angry waters."

He glanced at the barometer and said, "The pressure hasn't fallen for two hours. It has steadied at twenty-eight point three."

"That isn't dangerously low, is it?" "Not in itself. I'd say there is no great danger. Mr. Garrison, so long as the barometer remains steady."

"And if it drops?" Guy asked. "Then it might be touch and go," Captain Reynolds told him gravely. "Hurricanes are unpredictable. Any excessive low-pressure area is a source of danger."

"It would a hurricane do to the Nirvana?" Guy asked anxiously.

"Break her in two." The captain's reply was decisive. "Good lord!" The color slowly drained from Guy's face. "Why should we take a chance?" he demanded. "We have women aboard."

"I know—but I'm following orders."

"Do you have to follow the orders of a man who isn't—who may not be in his right mind?" "Who is there to say that Mr. Garrison isn't—er—just right?"

"Isn't this evidence enough?" Guy asked hotly. "No sane man would insist on holding our course in such weather."

"Yet—there may be no danger." Captain Reynolds was arguing with himself.

"LOOK!" Guy whispered, grabbing the captain's arm and pointing down to the deck, where Sherman Garrison was stubbornly making his way forward against the force of the wind.

There both he and the old man stumbled twice, was crashed against the rail by a torrent of green water, and completed the final stage of his journey on hands and knees.

"By heavens!" the captain ejaculated, as Garrison laboriously climbed the steps to the bridge. "It's hard to think of turning back in the face of nerve like the old man is showing."

Guy muttered, "He's having one last fling—and enjoying it. He won't care if we all go down with him to Davy Jones' locker."

Garrison's eyes were bright, his leathery cheeks aglow as he came onto the bridge. "This is something like!" he exclaimed, shutting the door. "There's life in the old boy yet. Guy, my lad!"

"All right," Guy growled. "You've proved you're not afraid of drowning. Now, let's turn back while there's time."

"I haven't enjoyed anything so much in a coon's age!" The irascible old man extracted a dry cigar from beneath his oilskins and lit it with a flourish, beaming at the captain. "Sailing, sailing, over the bounding main," he hummed slightly off key.

Captain Reynolds, picked up the engine-room speaking tube as a buzzer sounded. He listened briefly. Then, replacing the speaking tube he turned to Garrison.

"Trouble in the engine room, sir. Vibration from the propeller is threatening to tear the shaft out."

"Bah! The Nirvana—"

"That's not the worst. The mer are threatening to mutiny. They demand that we turn back."

Mutiny on the high seas! The word, with all its terrible implications, fell like a bomb from the captain's lips.

GRANARY BILL AGREEMENT IS REACHED

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Chairman Smith (D-S.C.) announced today general agreement of the senate agriculture committee on an "ever normal granary" bill, patterned along administration ideas, except for cotton control.

He promised the bill would be ready for senate consideration Monday, but said he would ask leaders to recess the senate today until then, to allow the committee more time to work on details.

Smith said the committee had agreed to let southern senators write the cotton section of the program and that this group would start work today.

"There is one rumor that I want stopped," the veteran South Carolina Democrat said, "and that is that I am blocking legislation. I told farmers and the committee that whatever measure the majority wanted, I will support."

Her testimony of cruelty was corroborated by her mother, Mrs. R. A. Gardner of Fort Bliss, Tex., and by her cousin, Miss Sybil Griggs of San Francisco.

Mrs. Spreckles said her husband spoke to her disrespectfully and profanely in the presence of guests.

The couple married in London in July, 1936, and separated March 29, last.

NEW YORK. (AP)—Lou Gehrig, the Yankee iron-man, is due in Hollywood Monday to begin work on "Laughing Senior."

So far as the football reporters are concerned, the most popular coach to come to town is "Slip" Madigan of the St. Mary's Gaels. . . . No four-star football special this week amid conditions being too uncertain. . . . But here are a couple of lusty two-star specials: Columbia over Dartmouth and Stanford over California. . . . Mid-Western sports writers are carrying the torch for Ray Mickovsky of the Case school at Cleveland to make the Associated Press "little all-America." . . . Mrs. "Slip" Madigan had to leave the St. Mary's football special at Chicago and fly back to California because "Slip, jr." aged five, was stricken with pneumonia. . . . BROWNS OUST BOTTOMLEY

ST. LOUIS. (AP)—Leroy Bottomley, who succeeded Rogers Hornsby as manager of the St. Louis Browns last July 21, was given his unconditional release today.

Discharge of "Sunny Jim" left the Browns the only club in either league without a manager for 1938. Gabby Street, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and coach under Bottomley, may get the job.

Bottomley said he had no immediate plans for continuing in baseball. He played first base for the Cardinals from 1922 to 1932, before going to Cincinnati. In March, 1936, he came to the Browns as a coach.

San Bernardino's Preps Bow, 13-0

Sophomore football honors in the Citrus Belt league were being sported today by Santa Ana High school's "Little Saints," who impressively blanked the San Bernardino Cardettes by a 13-0 score at Poly field yesterday.

The game featured the power plays of Ralph Barnes, Bobbie Musick, and especially of Aureo Orozco, who came into the spotlight when Coach Reece (Pinky) Greene was forced to juggle his lineup because of injuries.

Both Santa Ana touchdowns were scored as the result of passes. The first crossed the goal standing up as the half ended.

NELSON GERMAIN SCORES
The opening period found the Cardettes in an offense that gradually pushed the Saints deep into their own territory, but which proved useless because of some bad breaks in the form of penalties.

Near the end of the half, Barnes punted out on the San Bernardino's four-yard line. The Cards immediately kicked to Ross Barnes, who returned to the visitors' 28. Ralph Barnes' pass to Bill Brown was incomplete, but Bobbie Musick shot one to Nelson Germain, who caught the ball on the four-yard line and crossed the goal standing up as the half ended.

Right here we start nominations for an all-America football manager with the name of Earl Luke of Louisiana State. . . . They say this boy really is the tops. . . . Pitt had better look out for a bird named Hackney when it goes to Durham to play Duke a week from tomorrow.

LA DUE WINS ON S. A. MAT

never late in the second canto. The off-the-ropes-leverage employed by La Due, even after Tillman had given up, crippled the Garden Grove grappler so badly that he was under severe handicap at the start of the third and deciding fall. Fans cheered the loser and booed the winner long after the match had been declared over.

Carlos Rodriguez, light-heavyweight champion of Mexico, emerged a straight-fall winner over the powerful Polish ace, Zibby Zbyszko.

Rodriguez won both falls with a backward legjackknife, forcing the sneering Zbyszko to give up under severe punishment on each occasion.

Covered with blood as the result of elbow smashes to the face, the Mexican champion resembled an enraged bull as he tore after Zbyszko to win the first and second falls of their scheduled 45-minute time limit match.

HILL, CLEMENTS DRAW

Oklahoma Frankie Hill and Frank Clements put on one of the best matches of the night to end in a 30-minute draw while Joe Sabo, the Canadian, won a popular match from Marshall Carter in the opener.

It was announced that next Thursday night's Thanksgiving program will feature "Wild Red" Berry, former world light-heavyweight champion, and the Mexican titleholder Rodriguez with the world's greatest negro wrestler—the Black Panther—also signed to appear.

There were no substitutes, and the new deal show clicked from the first to the final match.

(MRS. MATTIE V. WAGNER, prominent California property owner who has lived here many years.)

"I suffered with horrible attacks of rheumatic pain, and I am truly grateful to RUX for the wonderful relief I have found. Nearly 2 years ago my right foot started to feel numb, and then I had agonizing attacks of pain in my arms and legs, until I was almost helpless and had to be carried upstairs. These pains seemed to pull my muscles apart, as if there were a hot knife inside, and I lay awake night after night. Then I heard about RUX and I started using it, and inside ONE WEEK it actually relieved this awful pain and swelling. I am so thankful for this medicine and genuinely glad to endorse it."

RUX is positively guaranteed as a Pure, Internal Medicine. It is the actual prescription of a celebrated Army Doctor, who has used this formula in thousands of cases. LAW URGED TO STERILIZE DEGENERATES

State Clubwomen
Vote for Reform

LONG BEACH, (P)—A resolution urging amendment of the state penal code to compel sterilization of sex degenerates was passed today by the southern division of the California Federation of Women's clubs.

The resolution, adopted at the closing session of the federation's convention, asked also that such persons convicted of sex crimes against children be imprisoned and made ineligible for release on probation.

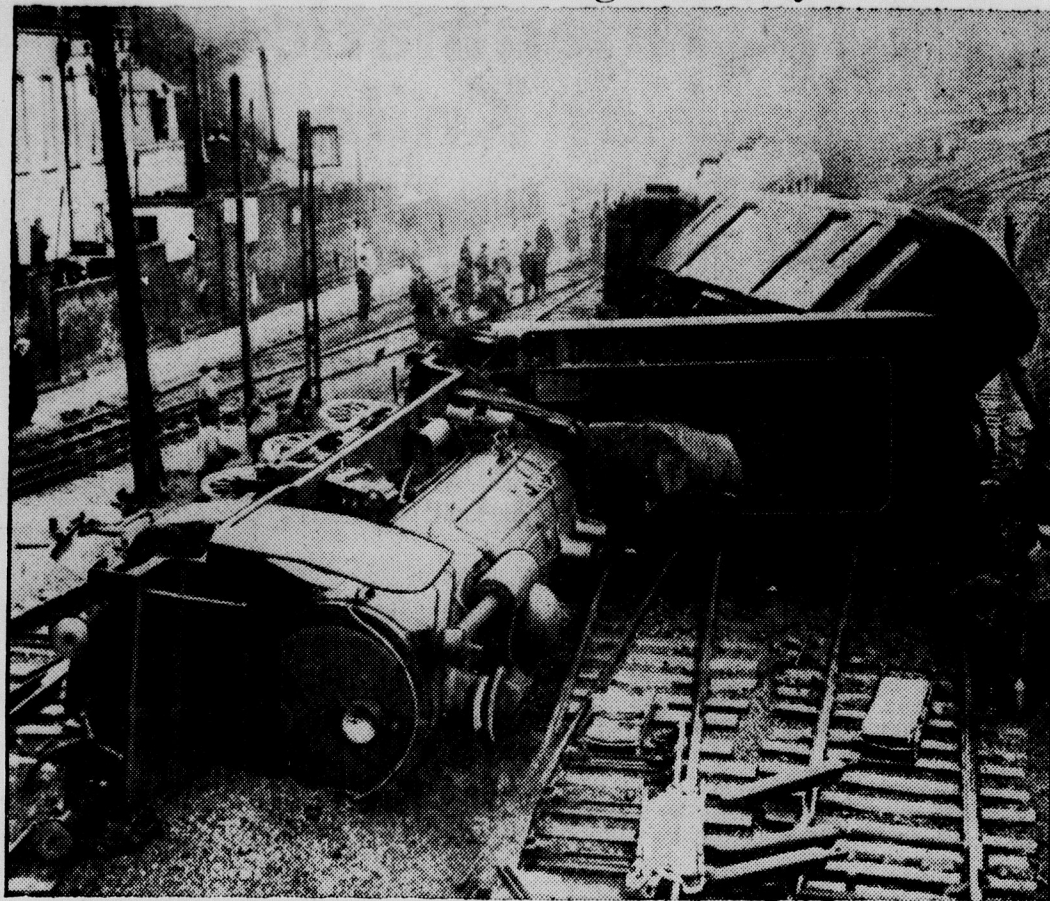

Idleness among convicts, Miss Florence Monahan, superintendent of the women's institute at Tehachapi, said today, is the chief reason for prison troubles.

"All sorts of vicious habits and horrible practices are developed in prisoners because of the vacant hours they spend," Miss Monahan said.

Miss Monahan then outlined the works program at Tehachapi, intended to occupy the inmates and train them for jobs after their release from custody.

Dr. Paul Poponee of the Institute of Family Relations also addressed the federation at the closing session of the convention, charging laxity today in considering the welfare of children.

Death Had The Right Of Way

This express train, hurtling from Brussels, Belgium, to Calais, crashed while passing the suburb station, Dintinnettes, killing two engineers instantly. Locomotive and tender left the track and coaches piled up behind, but miraculously all passengers escaped injury. Curious are shown here inspecting the wrecked baggage car which is held by a large prop from toppling onto its side.

OCEAN FLYING FUTURE TOLD

WASHINGTON, (P)—The United States maritime commission reported to congress today that the established regular services of various companies, including Pan-American Airways, have demonstrated the reliability of aircraft.

Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy forwarded to congress the commission's survey entitled "Aircraft and the Merchant Marine." The report said reliability of aircraft presently available indicates the time is at hand when trans-oceanic airlines are becoming increasingly practical.

Long-range flying boats have decreased considerably the former importance of dirigible airships, the report said, but the latter still have potentialities in long-range work.

In this connection the report said:

"There are some very long non-stop routes that are desirable to cover, such as San Francisco to Japan, San Francisco to Australia, New York to Rio De Janeiro, New York to South Africa, which at present are still too long for economical operation of flying boats of under 150,000 pounds without refueling or intermediate stops."

The report said there is evident already a community of interest between shipping and airline operations. It mentioned that the Grace line is half owner of Pan-American Grace Air lines.

NOTED THEATER OWNER DIES

LONG BEACH, (P)—Sam Gargano, 49, for 25 years an owner of theaters on the Pacific coast, died here yesterday after an illness of two years. Immediate cause of death was a heart attack.

At one time Gargano owned the Venetian theater, Seattle; the Golden State at Oakland and the Corney at San Francisco. He has lived here for 11 years and owned the Brayton theater. His widow, Clara Gargano and a son, Roy, a junior at St. Mary's college, survive.

Slight Drop Noted In Farm Prices

Farmers are making more money than they did a year ago, despite evidence of some recession in farm prices.

A survey recently completed by the Giannini Foundation of the University of California College of Agriculture shows that 15 out of a total of 24 items brought greater returns to the producer in October than in October of a year ago.

Prices of oranges, lemons, beef cattle, sheep, lambs, milkfat, butter, chickens, horses, wheat, oats, corn, hay, alfalfa and beans all advanced over October, 1936, but some of the persistent leaders, such as hogs and veal calves, showed no change from the 1936 figures. Declines were noted in milk, eggs, wool, barley, cotton, potatoes and apples.

WISE MAMA

MARSHALL, Tex. (P)—Seven-year-old Herschel McClure's mother didn't know where he was, but she knows Herschel. She asked Fire Chief Sam Lindsay to help locate the boy, missing four hours.

"If he's in town and the fire whistle blows, he'll rush out to the sidewalk—he always does," He did.

POPULARITY BUSINESS GOAL

A program for furthering better understanding between business interests and the public will be described by W. C. Mullendore, director of the United States chamber of commerce, at a meeting of the Santa Ana chamber Monday noon at the Green Cat cafe.

The program, which is authorized by the United States chamber of commerce, is based upon the assumption that a one-sided picture of business has been presented to the public. The chamber asserts that if business enterprise is to escape strangulation, it must win popular approval.

A nationwide campaign is being organized to present the facts to the public in which Santa Ana will take a part. The local chamber will sponsor a program of publicity through the newspapers and radio and by personal contact in an effort to show that business cannot survive without the public's cooperation and that if business suffers every individual is economically injured.

The rocks of New York's Palisades are said by geologists to be 150,000,000 years old.

HO! HUM! POLITICIANS IN ACTION AGAIN

CANDIDATES READY TO SLIP LEASH

Anti-West Cohorts Seek Leader

The Carl Hankey-for-supervisor boom was under way today in the fifth district, as Supervisor N. E. West and two other potential candidates pawed the ground and snorted.

Hankey hardly knows what to think of it himself, but he is being pushed by several influential citizens in both the fifth district and other parts of the county—wherever West has rubbed fur the wrong way.

Other candidates whose hats either are in the ring or have been partly lifted are West, of course; Lloyd Claire of Newport Beach and Dan Mulherson of San Clemente.

Hankey will get support, if he runs, from old-time Santa Ana. He was born and reared here, and has since become a well-to-do rancher in San Juan Capistrano, where he serves on two school boards and raises blue-ribbon flowers among other things.

Trouble in picking the district's anti-West candidate for next year's clam bake at the polls is a matter of geography, as well as personality. Hankey is quiet, easy-going. Mulherson is good-natured, firm in his ideas but not noisy. Claire, his cohorts claim, would have West's outspokenness without West's theories.

The geography matter is important. Tustin used to be the center of the fifth district. It moved later to the south, through Irvine to Laguna Beach. Now it's heading north, say the political crystal-gazers. Which is the reason they won't give Uncle Dan much, although he has headed the WPA here and still is Santa Claus (the reindeer variety) for the coast association's Christmas party. He's too far south.

Except for picking the jealousy against Newport Beach, Claire might be ideal. Some rural residents, however, feel that Newport wants to hog the glory and might split the vote so that West could slide in again. For that reason, except for the fact he has been politically unsuccessful before, Dr. C. G. Huston of Costa Mesa might get the nod.

West, of course, is actively in the race for something. He took a long, lingering look at Washington once, but may not again just at present.

A smart politician who makes his own news, West at present is beating the city-county-consolidation drum. The idea is not new. Supervisor William C. Jerome had it as a hobby for years, but still it won't work, say the soothsayers. "You'll never get Anaheim and Fullerton," they say, "to give up their identity and become part of a city-county." Which is the same idea that goes around in the minds of people in Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, San Clemente and other spots with civic pride.

West, no matter how many knocks he gets, always will bear watching in politics. His theories get him in bad with some, in good with some. The district feels, however, that it will take a lot of votes to send West back into the real-estate business.

I JUST FOUND OUT—

Growing Tobacco In Orange County

By MILLARD BROWNE

Santa Ana's the best tobacco-growing country in the United States. Jack Robinson says so, and he's been growing the stuff all his life.

Robinson, however, is about the only person in California who grows tobacco. The local ranchers, fairly satisfied with citrus even in the year when their crops freeze, don't take much stock in his story that tobacco would bring a bigger net return in fertile Orange county soil than such crops as oranges and walnuts.

For three years Robinson, a retired Kentucky tobacco grower, has been experimenting to see whether Santa Ana soil and climate would be suitable for growing his favorite product. It's not only suitable, he finds, but it's the best there is.

The Kentucky, who lives at 824 East Fourth street, visited his old home three years ago, returned with 254 tobacco plants. They didn't grow so well the first year, but they produced a bumper crop of seeds. So he planted the seeds in his back yard two years ago, and the plants, better acclimated by then, began to prosper.

Now his tobacco crop consists of about two dozen plants with what he claims are the biggest leaves and finest texture he's seen—the kind of tobacco that's used in high-class cigars.

It's just a hobby, Robinson isn't growing tobacco commercially, doesn't intend to. He's tried in vain to interest a few local ranchers in sowing an experimental acre or so, now believes some of his old tobacco-growing pals in Kentucky will move out to take a crack at the first commercial tobacco ranch in California. Only other place it's been planted so far is in Bina park, where Robinson has installed a few stalks.

Though he doesn't market any, Robinson uses up his small back-yard crop by smoking it himself. Experienced in tobacco packing, he makes his own cigars, crumbles the less select leaves for pipe smoking.

Biggest reason no one in California—as far as he knows—has ever grown tobacco is that "these westerners just don't know how to raise it."

A crop like that in Robinson's back yard, he claims, would net between $800 and $1000 an acre per year, considering that it's a 90-day crop and can take three plantings a year. First grade tobacco sells for as high as $1.25 a pound.

Each tobacco plant has seven different grades—trash or flyings, used mostly for fertilizer or just thrown away; brights, or the leaves used for cut-plug or other lower grade smokes; lugs, the kind used in cigars; and tips, medium, red and long red leaves, which make cigars, cigar fillers and cigar wrappers.

Leaves are sorted into the seven piles, hung up to dry and mellow in open air for 90 days, then are ready for consumption.

One plant can produce enough seeds to sow an entire plantation, according to Robinson. Tobacco seeds are the tiniest of any commercial crop, and it takes less than a thimbleful to plant a whole acre.

Beauty of tobacco growing, Robinson explains, is that the stuff doesn't take any watering. Its big leaves gather moisture from the air, like cactus, and grow better in a fairly dry year than during a rainy season.

Santa Ana climate also is just right, the retired Kentuckian enthusiastically contends. Old weather like that last year didn't even hurt his embryo plantation. "The tobacco didn't grow much through cold weather, but it wintered right through and started growing again early in the spring."

Best way to grow tobacco in California, he believes, is to plant it in a walnut orchard. Falling leaves and walnut hulls naturally fertilize the ground enough to keep a tobacco crop prosperous. Citrus trees, Robinson claims, don't replenish the soil enough to make an orchard suitable for his favorite product.

Partly because of native fertility, and partly because no tobacco pests have invaded California yet, Robinson says his crop was better than any grown in Porto Rico, Cuba or the Kentucky blue grass. "We had to spray every plant with Paris green to kill the worm infestations," he said of his old Kentucky ranch.

Now that he's satisfied himself about the possibilities of growing tobacco here, Robinson plans to experiment with hemp. Next time he goes east, he says he plans to bring back some hemp plants and see if they'd prosper in this country.

The agile nicotine enthusiast has bigger plans: He'd like to see a few nearby tobacco plantations supply a locally-operated warehouse and cigar factory with raw material. "There are lots of empty factory buildings around, and that's a profitable industry Santa Ana seems to be overlooking," he remarks.

THEATER WINS VERDICT IN RACE SUIT

Delfino R. Aguilera was dressed in shabby, dirty clothes last March when he demanded entrance to Walker's State theater, and it was for that reason—not because he is a Mexican—that the management denied him admittance, a jury in Santa Ana justice court agreed yesterday.

Aguilera had asked $900 damages from Charles and Victor Walker for his "humiliation" at being denied entrance after he had proffered the full price of admission, charging the theater had discriminated against him solely because of his race.

The jury was out 40 minutes before it returned a verdict in favor of the defendants. Attorney W. Maxwell Burke, representing Aguilera, said he planned to appeal the case.

The plaintiff testified he was dressed in a clean, well-pressed suit when he was denied admittance to the theater last March, but Norlene Roberts, cashier, and Darrell L. Johnson, theater manager, both testified Aguilera had been dressed in dirty clothes.

The oysters will be destroyed unless the owner intervenes.

Neighbors overran the place, adding to the general excitement. But the boom didn't last long. "This oil is all wet," Wieting said after smelling the liquid. "It's good artesian water."

MODERN WOOD LORE

ASHLAND, Wis.—Earl Beauregard, 18-year-old Chippewa Indian, was lost 20 hours in the wilds of the Bad River Indian reservation. Did Earl look for the mossy side of the trees or tell the directions by the stars, send up smoke signals or rely on the red man's wood lore to get his bearings? Earl did not. He merely looked for the white man's electric power line and followed it into the village.

ORANGE JUICE TRADE SHOWS INCREASE

Orange juice packing in California is increasing at the rate of a quarter-million cases a year.

Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of the California Fruit Growers' exchange, pointed to that estimate as he outlined the exchange policy on citrus by-products in a recent talk to several hundred Orange county growers.

The orange juice pack, while not emphasized by the exchange, has increased from 800,000 cases in 1935 to 1,000,000 cases in 1936, and 1,250,000 cases last year, he said.

To date, however, the exchange has felt that the growers' interest is better served by collectively selling fruit for commercial canning than by exchange canning," he said.

"We doubt whether the grower would have received any better return if the exchange had canned and marketed the juice itself. We also believe that if all the facts were known, that more money has been lost in the canned orange juice business to date than has been made."

Armstrong said a comprehensive survey to determine consumer acceptance of the canned juice product is under way. The survey also is attempting to develop as far as possible facts about experience of others in the state in canning citrus products.

Jack Fisher Post Plans Xmas Party

Plans for the annual Christmas party of the Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American War Veterans, for its Christmas benefit party, will be worked out Dec. 1 by a joint committee from the chapter and the women's auxiliary, it was announced today. Harry D. Edwards will head the group on arrangements.

A warning was broadcast at this week's meeting by V. L. Brown, legislative chairman, for all veterans to be on guard during the special session of congress and the regular session. An attempt probably will be made, he warned, to drastically reduce the benefits of disabled veterans.

School Romans in Costume Party

The Latin club of Santa Ana High school held a costume party last night on the school campus. Members were requested to dress as "hard time Romans." The group first met in the "Y" hut where "get-acquainted" games with Latin as their basis were played. A trial of the disobedient new members who had been sold as slaves was conducted. Those judged guilty were suitably punished. Dancing followed the meeting, with ping-pong and other table games for those who preferred.

Later in the evening, refreshments of pumpkin pie and apple cider were served in the school cafeteria. At that time David Geddes and Lucille Griggs were awarded prizes for the best costumes for the boys and girls respectively.

SCHOOL SHOP SAFETY PLAN PROMOTED

"Safety First" became the motto in Orange county school workshops this week, as the county industrial arts teachers' association took the first step in a campaign to eradicate injuries.

Announcement of the publication of the "Manual of Safety Instruction in Industrial and Vocational Arts" was made by the association at a meeting held this week with the U. C. L. A. Mechanical Arts Alumni association as guests.

Makeup of the manual and objective tests which accompany it were discussed by Charles Brice, Tustin Union High school faculty.

Willard Wilt, president of the U. C. L. A. alumni association, spoke briefly, as did Burton H. Rowley, Lathrop Junior High school, and Fred Brooks, Huntington Beach Union High school.

Following dinner at the Santa Ana High school cafeteria an inspection trip through the industrial arts department of the school was made. During the afternoon the group visited the industrial arts departments of Brea-Olinda and Fullerton Union High schools.

U. S. C. Debaters to Compete in East

Forensic honors of the Pacific coast will be upheld next week at Denver by a two-man debating team representing U. S. C., the university announced today.

The team, composed of Capt. Sterling Livingston and Maurice Atkinson, will leave tomorrow on a speaking tour of the United States. They will return in about a month. While en route they will compete in the Western States debate tournament at Denver, Nov. 22, 23 and 24.

In the recent Pacific Coast tourney, entered by 58 universities and junior colleges from California, Washington and Oregon, the triumphant Trojans captured seven firsts, five seconds and three thirds in men's and women's debate, oratory and extemporaneous speaking.

Four Couples Entertain At Party

100 Guests Received At Country Club Before Comus

Adding yet another lavish and hospitable party to the roster that has been set up this fall in fashionable Santa Ana, a quartet of couples of the younger set received 100 guests at a cocktail party preceding Comus club's monthly dance last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ewert, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Shifflett, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gould chose to receive their joint guests in the spacious setting of the Santa Ana Country club although the dance was held in Orange. Great baskets of autumn flowers made background for a long Thanksgiving table on which were arranged a colorful horn of plenty from which tumbled luscious-hued fruits. Black and orange tapers, and hors d'oeuvres of all sorts completed a beautiful table.

Particularly lovely were the frocks worn by the four hostesses. Mrs. Ewert in striking white crepe with chateau trim, Mrs. Gould in vivid red velvet to offset her dark hair, Mrs. Shifflett in handsome black with gold lame, and Mrs. Hill in a stunning black taffeta with rhinestone straps.

WORLD STUDY GROUP HAS FINAL SESSION

When members of the World Study department of the First Congregational Women's Union met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Perry F. Schrock, 205 West Twentieth street, it was to enjoy a delightful program and tea, the last session of the year.

Decorations had been carried out with chrysanthemums, and the table was centered with fruit surrounded by Chinese persimmon leaves. Tall tapers lighted the tea table where Mrs. E. F. Tradewell and Mrs. C. F. Jackson poured. Miss Miriam Woodbury of Claremont, secretary of Congregational home missions for many years, spoke to the group, emphasizing the church's contact with immigrants as they are delayed at Ellis island. A quartet from the church choir, composed of Mrs. Edith Troxel, Mrs. Fred Perry, Mrs. John Smith, and Mrs. Roy Gwaltney, sang a group of selections accompanied by Mrs. Don Mozley.

WELL KNOWN PAIR WED AT GARDEN GROVE

Of wide interest to county residents was the marriage Nov. 15 of Mrs. J. F. Polston and Nathan Harmon, which was solemnized in the early evening at the home of the groom in Garden Grove by the Rev. Frederick Eusclot. Mona Summers Smith, Miss Leona Calkins, and Miss Alberta Carter. The district includes San Luis Obispo county and all territory south and featured on the program will be Dr. Frank C. Baxter, Mrs. Anne Leidendecker, Miss Mabel Gillman, and John Henderson.

CLUB MEETS AT MILLER HOME

Mrs. John A. Miller was hostess to her contract club Wednesday, serving a delightful luncheon in her home at 421 Wakeham street. Dainty button chrysanthemums in yellow tones decorated the small tables. Laid were in vases and bowls around the room.

Place-cards and menu carried out the Thanksgiving motif, and contract prizes went to Mrs. Francis Edmunds and Mrs. Joe Harless for high scores, and to Mrs. Claude Sleeper for consolation.

Other guests were Mrs. Arthur Trawick, Mrs. Frank Brigante, Mrs. Don Hillyard, and Mrs. Elmer Sullivan.

After lunch at the home of Mrs. Haddon, the group went to the Ebelle clubhouse for the larger party of contract. Guests were Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. I. F. Landis, Mrs. H. T. Dunning, Mrs. James Harding, Mrs. L. G. Swales, and Mrs. Clare Johnson.

Pegasus Club Hostess To Flowers For Pieireans

What has grown to be an annual exchange of compliments was enjoyed yesterday by members of two literary clubs of Santa Ana when Pegasus club was hostess to her sister-group, the Pieireans, in the attractive new home of Mrs. Malcolm Macurda, 1620 North Baker street.

Both organizations were founded by Mrs. George Bond, who is an active member of the hostess club, and for this reason a particular honor was accorded her.

After a dessert course served in the chrysanthemum-filled living room, for which Mrs. Charles Fuller had stripped her garden of lovely blossoms, a delightful afternoon was enjoyed with each member of each club reading some original contribution in verse or prose. Additional pleasure was given by musical numbers presented by Mrs. Macurda and by Mrs. Charles Brisco, and by a little story read by the former's son, Neal Macurda.

Present to enjoy the joint hospitality of Mrs. Macurda, Mrs. Frank Lansdown, Mrs. Rose Jackson, and Mrs. Jack Geraghty of Glendale, who were the specific hostesses for Pegasus, were the Mesdames H. W. Gutreus, W. P. Watkins, Jean Bohlander, Mary E. Purdue, Earl Ladd, Margaret Church, Jennie Crawford, A. J. Warner, T. P. McKee, and Hugh Gerrard, all Pieireans; and of Pegasus club, the Mesdames George Bond, Elizabeth Foote, Charles Brisco, Ray Brown, Charles Thompson, Justus Birtcher, Earl Morris, Glen Tidball, Charles Fuller, and the hostess quartet.

JUNIOR COLLEGE PLAYDAY TO BE SATURDAY

Miss Roberta Nichols is arranging fall decorations for the luncheon. When autumn leaves, fruits, miniature turkeys, and wigs will line the tables. Miss Betty West is in charge of tickets. Miss Irene Noble, tennis manager, and Miss Mary Ann Lowe, basketball manager.

YOUNG PEOPLE HAVE GAY DANCING PARTY

The fifteenth birthday anniversary of Miss Bertha Mae Earnhart was joyously celebrated last night when her mother, Mrs. W. G. Seacrest, entertained at an informal dancing party in her honor.

The affair was held at 2656 North Main street, with masses of gold and russet chrysanthemums decorating the reception hall. Assisting Mrs. Seacrest in serving a late refreshment course to the young people was her sister, Mrs. R. G. Bond.

Present at the enjoyable affair were the guest of honor and Mary Helen Peddy, Mildred Peddy, Florence Flood, Bonnie Jean Thompson, Eugenia Bond, Helen Garnett, Lorene Woodward, Dorothy Thompson, Bobbie Earnhart, Harold Root, Billy Egan, LeRoy Humpedour, Bob Adams, Tommy Erdie, Mac Cane, Billy Jolly, Dean Shields and Max Mansfield.

Tony Martin, screen and radio singer, can play all the wind instruments.

One of the finest attendances this year was that reported for yesterday afternoon's session of the Ebelle Garden section, which began with a 12:30 p. m. luncheon in the Peacock room of the clubhouse.

Mrs. J. E. Liebig headed the luncheon committee, assisted by Mrs. T. E. McLeod, Mrs. J. J. Harrison, Mrs. C. W. Westgate, Mrs. Clyde A. Bach, and Mrs. A. J. Bowen as co-hostesses.

Heading the afternoon's interesting program was an exhibit of Christmas wrappings and decorations by a local store. Featured was a new type of Christmas tree light, and a tiny lighted altar. Miss Lucille Cook gave a demonstration of clever and unique wrappings with cellophane.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Charles Druit, chairman of individual arrangements for Thanksgiving and Yuletide holidays, who carried out the holiday motif. She had arranged a whole series of table decorations, beginning with a centerpiece of pine needles, with candles arranged with pomegranates. Three wreaths made of pine needles and pine cones, small fruits, and red berries completed the other displays.

Several other members had brought their centerpieces for exhibition. Mrs. Clara Duggan demonstrated fruits and chrysanthemums in an arrangement; Mrs. Margaret Menes had a clever wreath made of ivy and red roses; Mrs. J. C. Lamb exhibited a centerpiece of Arizona cypress and Jerusalem cherry.

Mrs. E. C. Franson had prepared a lovely basket of desert holly, and Mrs. Maxwell Burke's centerpiece was made of rose apples and branches of cypress which she had silvered. Mrs. C. E. Utt exhibited two decoration effects, a bowl of bright pomegranate leaves and a brown jug containing branches of California holly. The final arrangement was a bunch of transvaal daisies in a beautiful blue bowl brought by Mrs. F. E. Moore.

STATE OFFICIAL WILL VISIT D.A.V. AUXILIARY

Two important civic functions were reported on at this week's meeting of the auxiliary to Jack Fisher chapter of the Disabled American Veterans, one being participation in the local Red Cross drive, and the other announcement that the Armistice Day float constructed by the group had won third prize at the holiday parade in Fullerton.

In charge of decorating the float, which featured figures of Columbia, a sailor, and a soldier, were Mrs. Van Leonard Brown and Mrs. Dean Laub. Plans were made to entertain the auxiliary's state commander, Mrs. Nora Bates of Los Angeles, who will make her official visit here Dec. 1. A banquet at 6:30 p. m. at Daniger's will precede the regular meeting at 8 p. m. at the K. C. hall.

Miss Lydia Fisher reported on a district meeting at San Bernardino which was attended by Mrs. Mary Fisher, Mrs. Emma Kelly, Mrs. V. L. Brown, Mrs. Dean Laub, Mrs. C. K. and their sprouting semi-grown girls to with this tempting whim of femininity. Worn with a gay calot—and they are by the thousands—the girl of sixteen is beside herself with joy—and actually mistakingly smart—and actually not minding the bonds of good taste any longer. That is, of course, if the veil is short enough and perky enough and youthful.

The impulse behind the millinery of today springs from woman's new quest for beauty and romance. And do believe me when I tell you again that a woman cannot be smarter than her head! I've said this and written this to women for twelve years now. But never was there a more important bit of costume advice to be said. For let costumes come and costumes go, let them be new or old, good or bad—it is the hat and the hair which still makes others gasp and say, "How utterly lovely!" or—"What a flop!"

in autumn shades and flanked by glowing tapers.

Entertainment for the afternoon was provided by the Burks girls, four little colored tots who presented several songs and dance routines. Miss Barbara Speed, president of the group, conducted a business session following the program. Reports on the dance to be given in the clubhouse on Friday, Nov. 26, were given by Miss Jean Dowds, music chairman, and Miss Barbara Flower, decorations chairman.

Miss Jane Holles, Miss Peggy Holloway, and Miss Aileen Smith were hostesses for the meeting, assisted by their mothers, Mrs. R. C. Holles, Mrs. Paul Gilbert, and Mrs. Arthur B. Smith, in receiving members. Tea was served from a tea table prettily centered with a bowl of chrysanthemums.

Mary Stoddard Two Girls Seek Advice In Selecting Right Male Companions For Dates.

Two young girls are starting out in life with high hopes for the future. This, according to their own admission. They are on the right road, but they must be careful not to stub their toes.

They attend dances and seem to find it difficult to meet boys of their own age who measure up to their standard of what escorts should be. Should they sort of lower the standard a bit, so they may have male companionship? If they do, that's where they're going to stub their toes, and eventually fall.

They relate their experience in the following letter:

Dear Miss Stoddard: "We are faithful readers of your column, and have profited considerably from advice you have given others. But now it seems that we have to confront you with our problem. Although it may seem a slight matter to many of your older correspondents, it is one that may decide our future."

We are two young girls starting out in life with high hopes for the future, but we have that problem of dates. We go to dances, but we don't go home with any boy that happens to ask us.

A few weeks ago we met two good boys who took an interest in us. They asked for a date, but we refused. Later on they came out and met our parents, and then took us out for a drive. They respected us, and we them, but because we wouldn't pet, they haven't asked us out again. Of course, we realize there are plenty of fish in the sea, some good, some bad, but what is a girl to do nowadays? Just because she won't lower herself to the common, cheap type, she can't seem to get along with the majority of the boys. There are some, I'll admit, that are decent, but those are few and hard to find.

Now, we would like your advice, and that of your readers, as to whether we should lower ourselves to give in to their ways, which are not to extremes, or whether we should hold to our own ideals, which are those of respectable girls.

We will appreciate all advice, and surely will profit by it. Thanks. B. and D.

Suppose you do not hold to your ideals? What will be the result? Suppose you do turn into party girls and go out with young men who have no serious intentions other than spending the evening with girls who are not too particular? Suppose some day, in a few years, you decide you want to marry, settle down, have a home and become mothers? Do you think the young men who you have permitted to escort you will propose to you, or if they should, would they be the type you would want for the father of your children?

I'll tell you what is wrong. You are seeking in the wrong crowds, and the wrong places, to meet the young men who adore girls with ideals.

Holiday Sets Motif For Dance

With the holiday mood adding charm to the customarily delightful monthly Comus club dances, last night's affair in the Orange Women's clubhouse proved to be even more of a success than those of past months.

About 80 colorfully clad couples were present to dance to the music of Lee Mann's orchestra, with the lovely formal frocks of the ladies adding bright touches in the ballroom. Decorations throughout the rooms were carried out in a holiday motif with bright autumn flowers as the predominating arrangements.

Greeting the couples as hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. Tevis Westgate, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sundquist. All the hostesses were charmingly attired, Mrs. Harwood in quaint blue moire, Mrs. Westgate in striking black velvet with gold accessories, Mrs. Sundquist in beautiful deep rose taffeta, and Mrs. Monroe in a delightful blue and silver striped taffeta frock.

After an evening of dancing, the group was served cider and doughnuts. Announcement was made of a Comus club board meeting scheduled for Daniger's cafe Monday.

president of the Orange County council of Legion auxiliaries, was a special guest at the banquet which was attended by about 125 persons. Special music during the evening was offered by the championship trio of the local drill team.

Mrs. Genevieve Eckley, Mrs. Ida Burnett, Mrs. Martha Van de Walker, Miss Betty Lowe and Miss Evelyn Wells were initiated into the auxiliary. Rites were conducted by the local drill team.

POISON FOOD DEATH TOLL GROWING

Woman Dies From Eating Chili

TUCUMCARI, N. M. (AP)—The toll of deaths attributed to the eating of poisoned home-canned food mounted to six today with the death of Mrs. Joseph Lujan of Norton, member of a party of 12 attending a funeral here Monday.

Dr. C. A. Wagner, superintendent of Tucumcari hospital, reported Mrs. Lujan died only a few hours after a TWA transport plane, racing against death, brought a quantity of serum here from Kansas City.

Dr. Wagner expressed concern for the fate of four members of the group who became poisoned while eating chili at luncheon. Five died Wednesday.

Gandhi Gains Release for 1000 Prisoners

CALCUTTA, India, (AP)—The Bengal government today announced the release of 1000 political prisoners, for whom the Indian nationalist leader, Mohandas K. Gandhi, interceded recently.

Duke Still Happily Married, Not a Fascist, Says Playmate

NEW YORK. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Livingstone Rogers, intimate acquaintances of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, arrived from Europe today professing complete ignorance of the Windsors' plans.

Rogers said he had not seen or heard from the duke since the former monarch's proposed trip to this country was postponed indefinitely.

Rogers has been one of the duke's favorite partners at squash, sailing and golf.

"It's too bad," was all he would say about the postponement.

He said he had known Charles

E. Badaux, the efficiency engineer who aroused a storm of labor criticism when he came here to arrange for the duke's tour, for several years but had no part in the arrangements.

"Do you think," he was asked, "that they will come over within the next few months?"

"I honestly don't know," he replied.

"Would you consent to act as their guide, or escort, if they should come?"

"That's a question I cannot answer even to myself," he said.

"Are they happy together?"

"They couldn't be happier."

"Is the duke generally interested in housing problems?"

"He is. He is sincerely interested in housing."

"Is it true that he has become irritable, since his abdication?"

"It is not true. The last time I saw him he was in very good shape, mentally and physically."

"Have you ever noticed any fascist leanings in him?"

"Not the slightest."

"In the duchess?"

"Not a bit."

'ALFAFIA BILL' TO RUN AGAIN

BROKEN BOW, Okla. (AP)—Former Governor William H. Murray announced today his candidacy for governor in 1938 with a demand for "rigid economy" in state government to offset a state deficit "which bids fair to exceed $30,000,000 when next year's campaign is over."

The announcement was made from the farm to which "Alfafia Bill" retired after leaving the governor's office in January of 1935.

Murray would be the first governor of Oklahoma ever to be elected twice should he be elected.

TO PROSECUTE PRANKSTERS

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The city attorney was forwarded today a recommendation by Municipal Judge Newcomb Condee that misdemeanor charges be brought against Robert Blanchfield, 19, and Norman McGrew, 21.

Felony charges of malicious use of explosives against the youths, who were accused of having set off a blast on the Angelus Temple dome Nov. 8, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Condee.

"Evidence shows the explosion started out to be a prank, but they should be punished," commented the judge.

Gordon Atwater, 16, lost his left hand, and Edwin Bond, 16, was severely burned in the explosion.

What to Do When Wife Steals Suit

SAN FRANCISCO. (Special)—Your lawyer may be able to tell you where the California community law comes into this one: An agent of ours is in a tailor shop at 17th and Geary, having a new shine put on his blue serge. In waitings a man to confront the tailor, who is busy at his specialty of making a woman's suit out of a man's suit.

"That's my suit," says the man, "and it's stolen."

The tailor but-butted.

"Yeh, I know a woman brought it in," agrees the man, "but she's my wife and that's my best suit."

He got the suit by describing the wife and paying a small fee for having the lining sewn back in.

MAY CHANGE L. A. POWER GRAB PLAN

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Modification of a Los Angeles proposal for permission to a quire large amounts of Boulder dam power at a quarter-mill rate was reported today to be under consideration as a result of a protest from Nevada.

Members of a Nevada delegation which called at the interior department said they understood the proposal either had been already modified or its modification was being considered.

It was learned the reclamation bureau had informed Nathan I. Margold, department solicitor, who has the matter under advisement, it was opposed to any plan contemplating sale of Boulder power for a rate as low as one-quarter mill a kilowatt hour.

After the Nevada delegation left the interior department it met in Senator Key Pittman's office with representatives of the Los Angeles bureau of light and power.

Representing the Los Angeles bureau at the conference were Northcutt Ely, S. B. Robinson, Clyde Errett, H. C. Jarrett, Charles Garman and William Rowse.

FRENCH SEIZE GUN CACHE

PARIS. (AP)—The Surete Nationale seized another large cache of arms and munitions today in the thirty-eighth raid it has carried out since beginning investigation of the secret Gagouard organization (The Hooded Ones).

This latest discovery gave government agents still further proof of existence of a powerful, well armed military society, strongly suspected of being made up of French rightists.

Agents of the Surete Nationale confiscated 45 machine guns of German make, 134 rifles and 20,000 cartridges stored in the back room of an antique shop.

The proprietor and his sister were arrested.

Gasoline Tax Jumps 40 Per Cent For Italians

ROME. (AP)—The Italian government, furthering its program to raise money for self-sufficiency development of the empire, clapped a 40 per cent increase on the gasoline tax today.

The levy raised the price of gasoline in Rome by 25 per cent, the new figure being 3.32 lire a liter or 66 cents a gallon.

Dionnes Have Yet to Taste Turkey, Ice Cream, Candy

NEW YORK. (AP)—The Dionne quintuplets have a half million dollars in liquid assets, Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, their medical guardian, said today.

And at 3 years and 5 months, they care nothing at all about money—never ask for a nickel or dime.

Dr. Dafoe, here for a vacation, said it might be more than 10 years before they reach the millionaire stage, "because their expenses will be greater from now on."

Their assets are invested in bonds in the province of Ontario.

They not only are self-supporting, but contribute $100 a month to their family, and in three or four years probably will pay for a school to be built on their nursery ground.

It costs between $1600 and $1800 a month to maintain the five girls, their nursery and staff, Dr. Dafoe said. This includes the salary of two nurses, one teacher, a housekeeper, two maids, three guards for the grounds and a janitor. Dr. Dafoe draws a salary of $200 a month as medical guardian.

Mama and Papa Dionne and the other six children will have Christmas dinner with the quints, but there's to be no turkey for the five sisters—no ice cream or candy.

They've never tasted these dainties. Their nearest approach to

DOES WINTER BRING YOU A SERIES OF SNIFFLES?

1 Winter is a trying season. Colds and other infections abound in every crowded place. Too often, people permit common constipation to lower their energy, and get them in a "run-down" condition.

2 Make sure every member of your family keeps regular habits. For a healthy person has better resistance to colds and other germs. Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a ready-to-eat cereal—regularly for regularity.

3 You feel so much better when you maintain regular habits of elimination. Try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a week. Enjoy this natural laxative food instead of dosing yourself with pills and drugs.

Help your family keep well this winter

Go into this winter feeling at your best. Remember, common constipation can cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy.

Relieve constipation with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This food is a generous source of "bulk" to aid regular elimination. Unlike certain pills and drugs, it is not habit-forming or griping.

ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to help intestinal tone and iron for the blood. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In chronic cases, with each meal. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into recipes.

Buy this food at your grocer's. It will help your family keep well this winter. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

JURY FREES WOMAN IN FRAUD CASE

Civil Suit Filed Following Acquittal

Mrs. Jessie Broughner of Yorba Linda was acquitted last night by a superior court jury of bilking a Canadian war veteran out of $8000 in selling him her five-acre lemon ranch, but found herself defendant in a civil action before the jury had returned with its verdict.

Mrs. Broughner was acquitted by a jury of 10 women and two men in Superior Judge G. K. Scovel's court on grand theft charges. She was charged with misrepresentation in selling to George C. Oliver the ranch for $15,000 of which $8000 was a cash payment and balance in a trust deed.

Experts for the state testified during the trial that the ranch was worth nothing more than $6000. The jury found that Mrs. Broughner's representations to Oliver about worth of the ranch were expressions of opinion and not fraudulent statements.

Before the verdict had been rendered, Oliver and his wife, Mrs. Julie Oliver, late yesterday afternoon filed in the county clerk's office a civil suit against Mrs. Broughner, asking cancellations of the trust deed, complete possession of the ranch and $9000 damages.

Oliver, the complaint alleges, was injured in an airplane crash during the World war, and has the mentality of an eleven-year-old child, leading him to be easily influenced.

BRITON ENDS HITLER PARLEY

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany. (AP)—Viscount Halifax, Britain's "unofficial" peace envoy, left Berchtesgaden at 3:30 p. m. today, after five hours spent with Chancellor Adolf Hitler in what was authoritatively described as cordial discussion.

Details of their exploration of Anglo-German relations were not divulged, but it was understood they did not go beyond generalities and could have reached no important decisions.

Hitler spent half the time showing his guests the beauties of the wintry Bavarian landscape and the art treasures of his mountain home.

Blue Law Halts Radio Programs

BOSTON. (AP)—An old Massachusetts "blue law" bobbed up today to forbid all forms of entertainment other than sacred concerts on Sundays.

The Boston licensing board notified 350 hotels, restaurants and clubs Attorney General Paul A. Dever had interpreted the measure to bar orchestral or mechanical music, floor shows, singing and even radio programs. Audiences as well as performers were subject to fines, it said.

L. B. Firm Gets Bridge Contract

Grubb Fortune Settlement Told

SANTA BARBARA. (AP)—The final distribution of millions that came when prospectors struck oil under the old Grubb sheep ranch in Ventura county was reported today in inheritance tax reports filed with the county clerk.

Mrs. Alice Grubb died last year in the small Carpinteria farm cottage that had been her home for many years she left an estate valued, for taxation purposes, at $13,186,184.

Since her death, taxes have taken more than half of the estate, and the balance, the reports showed, were divided equally between Mrs. Grubb's children, Mrs. Emma Wood of Carpinteria, and Percy Grubb, who got about $3,000,000 each.

HIGH SPEED AIR ROUTE IS PLANNED

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Two six-passenger high-speed planes will be ready for delivery about Dec. 1 to augment service on Western Air Express' national parks route between Salt Lake City and Great Falls, Mont.

President Robert E. Gross of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. said the airlines have a top speed of nearly 230 miles an hour and a ceiling of 25,000 feet. They were built here.

Two Turkey Days Celebrated This Year at Davis

And now old Grandpa Gobbler has two days instead of one.

The University of California College of Agriculture today formally set aside Dec. 2 as "Turkey day," during which everything that goes into the making of a good, plump holiday bird will be discussed. All this provided, of course, that Thanksgiving leaves enough subjects for research.

Program on Turkey day will be handled by the poultry husbandry, the veterinary science and the home economics departments.

CLEVELAND RACKETEER PROBE OPENS

CLEVELAND, (AP)—Secrecy surrounded 11 business men as they appeared before the grand jury here to testify, Safety Director Elliot Ness said, how labor racketeers exacted thousands of dollars from them by extortion and intimidation.

Ness, a former federal alcohol tax agent who figured in the investigation on Al Capone's activities in Chicago, said the grand jury would hear more than 60 witnesses before the investigation to stamp out racketeering in Cleveland is completed.

It was anticipated the grand jury would not make a return for at least a month.

The safety director said many of the witnesses were prepared to testify that racketeering drove them to other cities to do business.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The war department ordered today transfer of Lieut. Col. Ralph I. Sasse from duty as a reserve officers training corps instructor at Mississippi State college to the 13th cavalry at Fort Knox, Ky.

Sasse recently resigned as football coach at Mississippi State because of poor health. His transfer will become effective as soon as he can be relieved.

NAB ARIZONA OFFICIALS IN 'PURGE'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sheriff Roy Merrill of Maricopa county and Justice of the Peace Harry Westfall surrendered today to face bribery and conspiracy charges filed by County Attorney John Corbin in a county wide gambling "clean up."

Eight others of 25 men accused of bribery and conspiracy were under arrest within a few hours after a squad of special officers launched the purge.

Arrest of Merrill came within less than a year after he took office, elected on a platform of opposition to gambling, which he charged in his campaign was rampant in Maricopa county.

Charlie Chan Aide Receives Large Salary

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Keye Luke, Charlie Chan's movie son, received a check for $1500 today for less than a week's work in a picture in which he does not appear.

The plot of "Thank You, Mr. Moto" revolves around a legend of seven Chinese scrolls. Since Keye is an artist in addition to being an actor, he was commissioned to make the scrolls.

Painted on silk, the scrolls were aged and prepared by young Luke to resemble work of the 13th century.

'Air Widower' Offers Plane For Divorce

CHICAGO, (AP)—Willard H. Anderson, a private pilot, complained in a divorce bill in superior court today that after he taught his wife to fly he became an air widower.

Instead of staying home to cook, he said, the 29-year-old wife spent her time flying about the country in "Betsy," the family plane.

Anderson said he was willing to give her the plane in return for a divorce.

Ship Insurance Price Reduced

LONDON, (AP)—British marine insurance underwriters made sharp reductions today in war risk rates on shipping both to the Orient and to the Western Mediterranean.

The reduction was believed due to transfer of Chinese-Japanese hostilities away from the Shanghai area and the virtual end of "piracy" in the Mediterranean accompanied by an easier political situation in Europe.

Rates for cargoes bound to or from Shanghai were cut to five shillings ($1.25) for each hundred pounds ($500) of value whereas a month ago the rate was two pounds ($10). The Mediterranean rate was reduced from seven shillings sixpence ($1.87) to five shillings.

Suicide Threat Brings Divorce

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Testimony that her husband, Ernie Westmore, film make-up artist, had a violent temper and twice threatened to commit suicide won a divorce today for Ethylene Claire Westmore, actress.

Asked if Westmore ever gave any reason for the suicide threats, Mrs. Westmore replied he did not. "He just became so violent," she said.

SANBORTON, N. H. (AP)—For 40 years a box supposed to contain old records stood unopened in Selectman Nathan Morse's office.

NEWS OF ORANGE COUNTY COMMUNITIES

PLAN MODEL VILLAGE FOR NEWPORT

Picturesque Fishing Area Is Suggested

NEWPORT-BALBOA.—First steps in a plan which may bring to the harbor district an old-world fishing village which would attract visitors from all parts of the country were taken here by members of the Harbor Service club at the suggestion of C. Harold Hopkins, planning board member and engineer.

Such a development, Hopkins pointed out, would concentrate in an attractive arrangement various units of the fishing industry at Newport. Net-drying areas and shops and crafts needed in the fishing business would be attractively arranged to give the western portion of Newport the air of an old-time fishing village.

URGE ZONING

Fish-smoking and drying could be developed on a larger scale at present and a generally attractive plan conceived through public zoning of the area, Hopkins added.

Walter Spicer pointed out that efforts must be directed to conserving values and that to do this best planning was necessary. He said that what would benefit one part of the city would benefit the whole.

He believed that ultimately the city area would envelop the entire upper bay region and probably also Costa Mesa, into one great harbor community.

Paul Palmer agreed he was impressed with Hopkins' idea and the big task was molding of public opinion, he suggested that study of the future of the city's growth was needed in order to determine what road the city should travel.

He agreed that a high type of development must be followed to attract the right type of settlers and that the city must be congratulated in having at the head of the planning commission a man who had ideals as well as experience and ability in the needed direction.

DISCUSS TRAFFIC

Sam Meyer, who was chairman of the day's program, then said that the traffic problem was much in the minds of many and called on Fred Storey to give his views. Storey thought that three blocks of parking on the ocean front at Balboa would go a long way toward solving the parking problem and said that many visitors were prevented from staying because of lack of parking.

The question of cost of any improvement was the first consideration and that study of taxing should be undertaken to see what changes and betterments could be carried on without adding to the tax burden, he added.

Dr. Conrad Richter, former mayor, said that improvements could probably never be made to equal the natural advantages, he believed some model houses should be provided. He hoped to see the time when triangular service for boats from Los Angeles to Catalina then to Newport and back to Los Angeles could be provided and also wished that some large corporation might become interested in some of the problems, he said.

Heinz Kaiser presided and said the next meeting will be given over to a movie picture secured by one of the national authorities on earthquakes. The next meeting will be in charge of Prof. C. E. MacGinitie, who will provide the speaker.

ORANGE.—Maple street P-T. A. members met Wednesday afternoon and heard a discussion of "How Much Homework?" by Mrs. Arthur Sipherd. She was introduced by Mrs. Robert B. McAulay, program chairman.

The speaker pointed out that for small children homework should never interfere with outdoor play, hobbies, and interests of family life. Parents are not trained to assist children in their home work many times, she said, and do more harm than good. Superintendent C. I. Thomas added that while some homework is required in the intermediate school, little is done before high school and college.

Mrs. Karl Glasbrenner presided and hostesses who served refreshments were Mrs. Wesley Davis and Mrs. William Iverson. The speaker next month will be the Rev. Myron C. Cole, it was announced.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. KOBB

Word comes from Townsend National headquarters at Chicago that the Educational edition of The Townsend National Weekly has already attained a distribution of 500,000 copies and that an additional printing of 200,000 has been ordered. The Warren, Ohio, Club No. 3 alone is distributing 8000 copies. In many of the states the drive for new members and the getting of signers on petitions to call state legislatures into special session to initiate an amendment to the U. S. Constitution are being accomplished in connection with the distribution of the educational number of the Weekly. From almost every part of the nation reports are coming of increased activity and increased membership being attained by the Townsend clubs.

The evidence is becoming more and more convincing that the old economic order as practiced heretofore in the nation and the world has broken down and no longer is capable of properly distributing wealth in ratio with the capability of the modern industrial methods of production. The admissions lately made by President Roosevelt in addressing the special session of congress that something different must be instituted as an aid to business gives emphasis that economics have need of new adjustments.

Every one who has intelligently studied the question knows that America is in a race with the world for the production of new wealth is also abundant in the nation—speak of the labor services so long unused out of which has come the great relief problem of America. Give a proper buying power to the people and soon the wheels of factories now idle would start turning out new wealth creations for the people to buy.

This activity in turn would create the new needed demand for more employees who when employed would add to the increased prosperity by the new buying power which would be invested in them as wage earners. There are many among those who at one time described the Townsend plan as cockeyed and impractical who are being converted to the fact there is real sound business sense in the plan. Circulation of money on an abundant scale is now being recognized as the nation's paramount need right in the Townsend plan would furnish the needed money volume and do it with an intelligence which is befitting the American form of government.

Santa Ana Club No. 11 is meeting at 8 o'clock tonight to eat refreshments in the Townsend club building at 149 South Glassell street. The public is invited to hear this young speaker who has plenty on the ball so to speak.

The word comes from Harlingen, Texas that Dr. Francis E. Townsend has accepted the invitation to address the Midwinter Rio Grande Valley Fair on November 24th. Members of the 15th congressional district of Texas are preparing to give the doctor a rousing welcome. Dr. Carl E. Lunn, president of the Townsend clubs in the district, that place makes the announcement—Townsend Weekly.

CAPTURE OF MANILA...
Strange as it seems, Admiral George Dewey of the U. S. Asiatic Squadron both opened and closed active operations of the Spanish-American War. His destruction of the Spanish fleet at Manila on May 1, 1898 was the first active engagement and the surrender of Manila under Dewey's guns on August 13, some three months later, was the final action. The capture of Manila proper actually took place one day after the peace protocol was signed! Dewey destroyed the Spanish fleet without losing a single man. Spanish fatalities, however, totaled 167. Having no available troops on hand, Dewey made no immediate attempt to capture the city of Manila. He raised and tapped the telegraph cable to Hong Kong but officials of the company refused to accept his message requesting troops. Dewey was forced to send his ship with the message. It was this cable-cutting action that led to the tardy capture of Manila, because news of the armistice between the United States and Spain on August 12 was delayed, failing to reach the Philippine city until after the battle took place!

Wise Conservatives

A piece written from London by Raymond Clapper ties in neatly with some opinions we've lately heard expressed by certain Orange county republicans—principally younger members of the party.

Clapper is a widely known Washington correspondent, at present making an extended European trip. His dispatch that caught our eye, in the San Francisco News, starts off: "The best investment the republican party in America could make right now would be to send its projected policy committee of 100 over here to see how the British conservative party has managed to stay in power during a period of world-wide social unrest."

Clapper adds that, "Whereas republicans in the United States stood stubbornly against reforms which would make the capitalist system work more equitably, and thereby permitted Roosevelt to run away with the show, the British conservatives realized that unless they did the job themselves the labor party would step in and go much farther—possibly to the extent of dealing capitalism a fatal blow."

Getting down to cases, he points out that, far from attacking or trying to repeal social security legislation, the British conservatives have extended social insurance to cover agriculture and the "black coated," or what we call white collar, workers. And that's only one of numerous items.

Right now the conservatives are working on what they call "unification of coal royalties." Clapper comments: "They do things under the most polite names." Actually the bill amounts to government purchase, or nationalization, of the important and ancient coal industry. This they held to be necessary because the old system was uneconomic and led to many complications.

They're being criticised by "long-mustached coal owning peers in the house of lords," on the ground that their property is being taken away from them, and by laborites, on the other hand, who insist that too high a price is being paid for the deposits. Despite these remonstrances from both right and left, parliament, under conservative party direction, is going ahead to vest title to the island's coal in the government.

Eleanor Holm and Billy Rose are engaged to be married just the minute their present husband and wife get divorces. That is technically a previous engagement.

A 'Communitistic Individualist'

One political fact that is pretty generally accepted, however much we disagree on other points, is that the party situation in these United States is thoroughly scrambled. Most of us are Democrats with a few hang-over Republican characteristics, Republicans carrying an admixture of New Deal philosophy, or perhaps Socialists that, however, maintain a few Republican and a few Democratic tenets. New York City has just come through an election in which the victorious mayor was supported by both the Republicans and Communists, with the aid of part of the Democrats.

The riotous new play that is bringing laughter on New York's Broadway is a satire on the Roosevelt administration. Perhaps you'd imagine it was concocted by the Liberty League. Not so. Somebody has just polled the 200 persons connected with its production as writers, composers, actors, etc., and discovered that only three in the whole number are Republicans! Nearly all, in fact, are Democrats.

George M. Cohen, who plays the part of President Roosevelt and lampoons him unmercifully, reports that he is a Democrat. He revealed further that he is "a Communitistic individualist," adding that he is for "a Utopia full of rugged individualists who have lost their greed, their selfishness, who only want to build a happy society and are given free rein to do it."

Sounds to us like a good platform for almost any party to adopt.

Cables say that a policeman stuck his fist into the mouth of the man who heckled King George. The London museum should have a plaster cast of that mouth.

Preparing for Peace

The United States is preparing for war. This is not quite as startling as it sounds, for every nation's army and navy are at any given time laying plans for their next call to action.

United States general staff officers are working out the framework of a new universal draft and voluntary enlistment system which would enlist 500,000 volunteers during the first 60 days of hostility and expand the regular army and national guard to 1,500,000 fighting men by the end of the fourth month.

They are preparing for war because that is the best insurance against war.

One dollar given to the Red Cross will come back many times in case of community loss.

Life Begins At—

A locomotive engineer who has worked 50 years at railroading, George Holloway of Toronto, Canada, has retired at 65 from active service and is starting off immediately to qualify for an aviator's license.

"From now on," says he, "I'm going to play—in the air."

The life-begins-at-40 movement may be responsible for a complete revision of the attitude of the human race toward age and its formerly seemingly rigid limitations. Life begins at just about whatever point you may compel it to.

Demon Rum
Once Slain
"Forever"

By
Westbrook
Pegler

On the night that the three saloons were voted out of our little town, long before the eighteenth amendment, bonfires burned on the lot where the W. C. T. U. drinking fountain stood, and the Rev. Mr. McKenzie, the Methodist minister who had led the crusade, thanked Almighty God that our youth would never know the taste of rum. Mr. Sampson, the victorious candidate for mayor, broke the heat out of a barrel of apples which he passed around to the adults in the town hall and provided a big wooden pail of grocery store candy for the kids. In other times it had been the custom of newly elected or re-elected mayors to lead a procession to one of the three saloons. But this was the beginning of a new era.

Unhappily, in the heat of the campaign it had come to light that the few Catholics in town had no religious conviction against alcoholic beverages as such and even held it to be no sin for a man or, yes, even a woman to drink in moderation—even whisky. Holding liquor to be an abomination and the demon rum to be an actual devil, Protestants, and particularly the Methodists, felt that they had no choice but to regard the Catholics with suspicion, and the blessing of the referendum was mitigated somewhat by this and the answering resentment.

DRUNK, NOT "TIGHT"

It had been established among the kids in the school yard that anyone whose father got drunk—the words "tight," "plastered" and "cockeyed" were not then used in this sense—was a social inferior, and now, by exaggerated inference, not only the fathers but even the mothers of the Catholic kids were at least potential drunkards. It made a very unpleasant situation.

It seems strange now that they took their liquor evil of those days so grimly, because actually the social stigma of drunkenness, extending even to the children of the offender, was a strong deterrent.

PUB-CRAWLING SOCIALITES

My first knowledge of the problem of the drunken mother came in London, where the ladies of the lower orders, ordered to take their children into the bars after some futile protest hit upon the idea of parking them outside, a dozen or more infants in charge of one little girl, while they spent the afternoon guzzling gin. It seemed awful at the time, but it was no different, really, from the present American practice of leaving the children at home in charge of the servants or in school and out of mischief while the ladies of the upper classes go pub crawling in the afternoon. No doubt about it, some of the girls do get thoroughly bottled when they go out larking, but there is nothing furtive about it, for they are just as likely to get tight at home in the presence of their bairns. The daddies, too. And many of them are smalltowners, too.

But, although this would have been horrible in our little town then, it was routine in our big cities now, and I suppose in our signal stops, too. I can't think of many children of my personal acquaintance who, really, are not getting their fathers and mothers blotto now and again, but none of them ever seems to be humiliated. Amused, yes.

I believe there was an instinct to propitiate the future in my early sympathy for the poor bums in our town jug in the throes of hangover. It was a small brick jug with two cells and no water, and when the sun hit them in the morning the bums would begin to yell "hoo-coo, hoo-coo." We lived nearby, and I would put a board up against the outside wall and peer in the barred window at men with cracked, blue lips with white, salty crust on them, begging for something to drink—even water. I couldn't get a cup between the bars, but my mother also felt sorry for them, and she would tie a bottle of water to the end of a mop handle and, by stretching, I would shove it across the intervening space to the bars of the cell.

I have never gone back to our little town, and I wonder if, after all the struggle and prayer of the W. C. T. U. and the Rev. Mr. McKenzie to put alcohol forever from the sight of our youth, there are now red leather and chromium lady bars for mothers where the three saloons used to be.

PIPED

The colored preacher had been discoursing about salvation, and concluded by saying that it was free as water. Then came the collection. "But, parson," objected one of the congregation, "I thought you said salvation was free like water." "So it is, brother," said the preacher, "and so is water. We only charge for piping them to you."—Ashington Colliers Magazine.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—As the result of the recall election yesterday the city council probably will have to name two new members for the board. The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Congress didn't prepare for session; never officially summoned; leaders lukewarm toward FDR program; some Democrats GOP allies; Republicans cocky over New York success; New Dealers are quiet; navy uses treated cotton in parachutes replacing Japanese silk.

WASHINGTON.—There are some very cogent reasons why the special session of congress got off to such a lame start, and they can be traced to a spot not very far from the White House.

Illustrative of the initial confusion was the fact that this congress never was officially called together. Congressmen read in the newspapers that a special session was set for Nov. 15, and drifted back to the capital. But they never received written notification. Roosevelt issued the call over the radio, but someone down the line slipped up on the other formalities.

Much more important was the fact that congressional leaders had done very little advance preparation. Apparently Roosevelt had taken their word that they would get back to town, and never took the trouble to put the halter on them.

SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS

Sam Rayburn of Texas, Democratic floor leader of the house, when asked by arriving colleagues what was on the program, replied: "Oh, we'll get a farm bill out in two or three weeks."

Asked what else was in the works he said: "Oh, we'll report on a wage-and-hour bill by petition in about a month."

But there was no real enthusiasm in Sam's voice. He was going through the routine of standing by the President, but his heart wasn't in it. An extremely capable legislator, the truth is that Sam Rayburn doesn't like the wage-hour bill. And almost every Southern Democrat (they hold the key places as committee chairmen) agrees with him.

LET CONGRESS DO IT

During the first special session called by Roosevelt in 1933, the administration itself drafted the important bills, merely handed them to a key senator or congressman. Almost unchanged, they were passed.

Now tactics are reversed. Listening to congressional protests that Roosevelt was trying to ram already prepared legislation down their throats, Secretary Wallace sent no farm bill to the Hill. Instead the agriculture committees of the house and senate are threshing out the bill's text.

Result: No farm bill is yet written. "Cotton Ed" Smith, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, came back from South Carolina breathing love and devotion to the farmer, but nothing else. He is now further away from a farm bill than ever before.

Meanwhile Marvin Jones, chairman of the house agriculture committee, has held hearings, but the bill is still in a chaotic state completely unacceptable to Secretary Wallace.

THEY HATE ROOSEVELT

One unique spectacle at this session of congress has been the Democrats sitting on the Republican side plotting together against Roosevelt.

Chief plotters have been Gene Cox of Georgia and Arthur Lam-neck of Columbus, Ohio. They not only sit on the Republican side, but eat lunch at the Republican round table with Jim Wadsworth, New York blue-stocking, and other Republican leaders.

Object of the conservative Democrats and the Republicans is different, but they are pooling operations. The Democrats want to whittle down the Roosevelt program, do what the supreme court once did. They never did agree with it, and now they intend to take advantage of the business slump to kill it.

The Republicans, on the other hand, are merely out to make political capital. Last session they were meek and browbeaten, now they are on the march. For the first time, they are really carrying the ball. They are cocky over the La Guardia election in New York (though it was largely a labor vote) and have become the gadflies of the administration.

UNEASY ATMOSPHERE

Present tempo of congress is one of uneasiness and fear. There is a scare psychology. During the special session in 1933 there was also a scare psychology, but at that time the drift was to give everything to Roosevelt. Now the drift is to be sore at Roosevelt.

This, of course, is the vocal, surface drift. Underneath there is a large group strong for the President, but keeping quiet about it. There are just two things that will make them erupt in aid of the President: Too much taunting from the Republican side, and too much disloyalty from the turn-coat Democrats. If there is enough of this, it may be a great boon to Roosevelt.

JAPANESE BOYCOTT?

Has the Navy quietly joined the boycott against Japanese goods?

Tucked away inconspicuously in the navy department's annual report to congress is the disclosure that it is now manufacturing parachutes for its fliers out of American cotton instead of Japanese silk. The use of cotton, the report explains, was made possible through the development of a new light-weight fabric by Navy scientists.

Southern textile mills, anxious to get rid of the South's surplus cotton crop, might take note.

Bright Moments

When the great Bismarck was yet a deputy serving at Frankfurt he took up his residence in a stylish house, which, unlike others of that day, had no bells to summon servants.

Bismarck, asking for one, was informed that if he wanted a bell he could buy one. Little more was said that day, but the next morning at daybreak someone shot off a gun in the house, frightening the inhabitants almost beyond their wits. The landlord hastened to find out what it was, and finally came to Bismarck's room. There the future great stood, with a smoking gun in his hand. "There is no cause for alarm," he said, "I am merely firing off a bulletless pistol in order to summon my servant. As I am without a bell, you had best accustom yourself to this, for I shall have to use the gun very often."

He got the bell

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent free discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

FED UP WITH DUKE

To the Editor:
During the last year, we have had the Duke of Windsor pushed down our throats, and I don't believe that I'm alone in saying that I'm getting a little fed up with it.

If there were anything really commendable about the man, it would be a different story, but I can see him only as a glorified loafer who has made his bed and isn't contented to lie in it. His postponed tour of the United States was referred to as a "slumming party," and I think that about sums it up.

Granted that, while Prince of Wales, he did make a few half-hearted attempts to investigate English working conditions, but if that desire had been genuine, he would have remained on the throne, where he would have had every opportunity to improve them. He professes still to love his country, yet he has made no sacrifices for it or his people. On the contrary, he continues to live in luxury on their hard-earned money! I therefore nominate the Duke of Windsor as the most worthless man of the year.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

NASHVILLE.—One signal from Mars that can be explained is reported by Latimer J. Wilson, an amateur astronomer here.

Last May while watching Mars in a 12-inch telescope, Wilson saw a series of bright flashes from the red planet's surface. They were close to Mars' south pole. They were tiny white spots. They passed in a patch from left to right across the "chin" of the planet's face. Some of the spots seemed to condense. Mr. Wilson reported in Popular Astronomy, to swell into a brilliant white spot, then became yellow, then yellow-red.

The explanation, he thinks, can be understood by everyone who has watched a row of distant windows flash into bright light, then pale to yellow in reflected sunlight.

The place where these Martian flashes appeared is covered with ice. This at least is the belief of astronomers. It looks like snow in telescopic changes with the seasons. The sun on May 30, when he saw the flashes, Mr. Wilson says, was at the right angle to make window flashes from Mars.

I'll Tell You

No matter if you're a card player, a prize fighter or a business man, you'll find that experience is a great asset because it teaches you to anticipate the other fellow's moves.

Uncle Slug had spent all his life in the country but when he went to New York, New York, he didn't take him any time to catch on to their ways. The second day he was there, he went into a bar-room, ordered a drink and after he had had about four of 'em, he told the bartender he didn't have any money.

The bartender says "Well, why didn't you tell me that before you ordered them four drinks?" Uncle Slug says, "Well, I told that to several bartenders yesterday and they wouldn't gimme the drinks and you fellas ain't gonna play that trick on me again!"

Add talkers through their teeth: Claude Rains and Robert Donat. Grown-up kewpies: Woolworth Donohue and Lisle Bell. Worn-out Broadway phrase: "How do you like that?" Eve Symington, once the only society café singer. But now look! Justice Black, alas, alack!

No. 1 girlish-looking grand-mother: Mrs. Jay O'Brien. Babe Ruth's nickname for everybody is Butch—even Chief Justice Hughes. Tops in colorful newspapermen: Gene Fowler. And I'll take the Joe Rhines orchestra for a waltz with Sheila Barrett. Lion-heart of the era: Prosecutor Dewey.

New free show: The funny lunch-time millinery at the Colony. For Gelett Burgess's look 11 years younger: Cecil B. DeMille. Two things about the Marx Bros.—you either like or can't bear them. The William Rhinelanders Stewarts look like you expect socialites to look.

Stokowski knots a mean muffler, too. And not many fellows can give a silk hat that certain stamp like Cole Porter. Or make their white tie ends flare out just so like Ronald Colman. The book critic Herschel Brickell's name sounds like a triple jump in checkers.

When Wesley W. Stout knew definitely he was to take over the editorship of the Saturday Evening Post, following the retirement of the late George Horace Lorimer, he decided to brush up on his literary background before the start of his new job. He went to do a lot of reading and historical research, so he bought a couple of five-foot shelves, sundry biographies and reference works and shipped as a super-cargo on a merchant ship for distant ports.

The super-cargo is a sort of purser on a freighter. He has certain arduous work, save when loading and unloading.

Joe Frisco's famous "heater"—the cigar he constantly puffed from the moment he awakened until he went to sleep again—has been abandoned, temporarily at least. After almost a lifetime of furious smoking, Frisco was ordered to slow up, and, not able to handle the habit moderately, gave it up altogether. His cigar puff of smoke were long a part of his dance routine, but he now uses an imitation cigar and leaves the smoke to imagination.

New York's somewhat mysterious first-nighter, the middle-aged Mrs. Katzenberg, is loyal this season to the rather moribund legitimate theater. There are not as many opening nights as there used to be, but she does not miss those that carry on. A bright blonde, swathed in ermine, she has occupied first row seats on the aisle at every premiere for years. She has no theatrical alib, is the wife of a business man and is merely an admirer of the theater and its illusions. She never exchanges a word with the others in the first night crowd, most of whom know each other intimately. All producers include a list of names for those who are mailed seats and prompt return checks. There are not many, for most of the first night crowd comes in free.

The men's bar at the Waldorf has become the uptown meeting place for the tired business man before he goes home for dinner. Just as was the old Waldorf bar on 34th Street. But there isn't the camaraderie of the days when the biggies drank old fashioned or rye straight, swapped Pullman car DeCamerons, perhaps huddled in song and maybe phoned home when they were delayed at the office. The New Waldorf crowd indulges a thin sherry, Dubonnet or something else light. Their talk seems cool and glassy. Men bow politely but there's little treating. Instead of interest in the last race at Pimlico, they invariably discuss the political affairs. It is a new generation grown up, lacking the abandon of the old and taut as fiddle strings, as though wondering just what.

A gentleman from Flemingsburg, Ky., writes of riding northward in a New York sight-seeing bus and of the megaphonist at a certain corner shouting: "On the left is the apartment house home of the columnist O. O. McIntyre." And I have been sinking at the front window trying to look nonchalant practically ever since.
